

Residential sewer bills based on flow fairer?

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City residential users could receive fairer sewerage treatment bills if rates were based on the amount of water flowing into each household, rather than the present flat rate, according to Treatment Plant Superintendent Terrence McMillan.

His findings, given to Mayor Paul Schuler and Granite City aldermen, means yet another alternative thrown into the continuing sewage billing debate — focused on how much more residents can afford to pay to make the plant self-sufficient.

Senior citizens and those with small households could be the significant winners if the council considers the flow method. McMillan estimates the bill for an elderly resident living alone could drop as low as $1.99 per quarter (each three months) from the current $13 per quarter.

This contrasts with City Comptroller Joseph Miklovic's suggestion of an $8.89 raise per quarter, or the pollution plant committee's alternative of increasing the rate by $4.50 and laying off seven plant employees.

(The plan of the pollution committee is dependent upon yet another rate increase in the near future.)

The other tentative quarter flow rate charges averaged on the number of people in a household are: two elderly, $3.99; one (adult) average, $6.62; two, $13.24; three, $19.86; and four, $26.48.

McMillan stated that while patterns of water usage vary among households, "the elderly may use as little as two cubic feet per day," compared to the daily average of seven cubic feet per person.

Rates based on water use may be billed directly by the city or may become a fixed percentage of the water bill. The latter is preferred by the superintendent.

"Indexing will remove political pressure from the elected officials of the city and will assure timely and proper rate charges, regardless of who is up for election," McMillan observed.

"Our local water company is part of one of the largest water utilities in the nation," the plant superintendent stated. He said the company always seeks "proper and timely" rate levels.

The flow rate is more expensive to bill and may increase computer services by $20,000 annually, since records at the water company will have to be examined, McMillan contended.

Mayor Paul Schuler said the main reason for charging the flat rate is the amount of money it might cost the city to read the 11,000 to 12,000 water bills to determine the treatment rate.

Billing residential customers on a flat rate is an acceptable Environmental Protection Agency practice, the mayor said.

"Past and current rates have not shown self-sufficiency and have been less than fully funding," the superintendent reported. According to McMillan, the mayor and the city council have little option in the setting of proper rate levels, which are dependent on plant self-sufficiency and full funding. However, the mayor and city council do have several options in expression of rates.

"The most equitable and most highly recommended form of rate expression is strict use of the quantity (flow) for all classes of users, including residential," he stated.

The superintendent based his tentative calculations on a $1.10 charge per 100 cubic feet of water flow. He made his estimates by converting the suggested hike of $21.89 into a cubic feet rate.

McMillan defended the comptroller's figures as reflecting accurately the current income needed at the wastewater treatment plant. The superintendent also noted that rates for excessive industrial strength wastes versus state averages vary by almost half.

Meet Friday on tax challenge

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City merchants, unhappy with the city's new 4-percent sales tax, will decide tomorrow if they will test the tax in court or merely request that the city soften "stringent" procedures connected with the application of the tax.

A spokesman for Community Spirit, an umbrella organization for those dissatisfied with the tax, said sufficient funds already have been raised for a court fight based on the constitutionality of the tax.

The organization believes the tax can be successfully defeated, as a similar one-percent city sales tax previously was, but the city has since rewritten key parts of the law, hoping to stand up to any future court battles.

The city lost its right to charge a Supplemental Retailers' Occupation Tax 17 days after the tax went into effect last November. The city enforced a revised Granite City sales tax on Jan. 1.

"The group's going to try to determine what they want. If they want the city to relax (regulations), that will be presented to the city," a spokesman, who wished that his name not be disclosed, said.

If the city decides to compromise with rules some merchants are having trouble accepting, the group may decide to drop plans for legal action at this time. "The group definitely represents all phases of retail business here," the spokesman said. "At the present time, the group's feelings are ambivalent. There are both feelings within the group," to go to court or to try and compromise, the retailer said.

He said merchants are concerned about the quantity of information the

Venice seeks investigation on grant allocations

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

A federal investigation into the distribution of federal community development funds is being officially called for by the Venice City Council.

By a unanimous roll call vote Tuesday night, the council went on record as requesting the U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) director in Washington, D.C., to conduct a full-scale investigation into Madison County community development affairs.

Alderman John Ervin said, "I think the city of Venice is being tricked out of money due to by community development. It is my understanding that funds should be distributed on needs of the area, not on population.

"We have tried to work every way we can with them," he said, adding that the county claims Venice receives money, "which we never get or can't get to help... a real need here."

"About two and a half, maybe three, years ago, they (the Madison County community development office) said we were moving too slowly in spending the money allocated for housing renovations. They then took the money and authority away from the council for us to handle."

"They (MCCD) move 10 times slower than we ever did. We are always being stalled," Ervin contended. They never can get their so-called inspectors down here to check these houses.

"We asked to use our own inspectors to help get this moving faster and were told, 'no.' Their inspectors are always sick or some dumb excuse why they can never come down to Venice," Ervin told the city council.

He added, "I think they are using excuses to give money away. According to the HUD guidelines, that money I read about going to A.O. Smith rightly should be coming to Venice on a basis of real need and not population or

Venice charge termed 'a wild accusation'

Joe Downing, assistant administrator of the county's community development office, responded to the council's call for an investigation, saying, "I don't think they looked at the figures very closely. I think it is just a wild accusation."

Downing said block grant funds are distributed by the county primarily on the basis of "poverty and, to a certain extent, population." He said there are three statutory objectives of the program: to reach the low and moderate income citizens, to eliminate slums and blight and to solve areas of urgent need. Few projects have been funded recently under the last of the three categories, he noted.

After the funds are distributed by regions, according to those criteria, it is left to the regions to determine how to best distribute the funds to meet the most urgent needs. "We feel the communities at the local level should know better what their local needs are better than the county. We then check each project to be sure it is eligible," Downing stated.

Commencing allegations by the Venice City Council that the county has been slow on housing rehabilitation, Downing commented that Mayor Tyrone Echols made that accusation earlier this year and "we've addressed that. I don't know why he is bringing it up again."

Downing contended the county has kept control "very tightly" over the Venice rehab program and added, "I feel our record is better than the city's in terms of quality of the finished product and the numbers (of homes) we have done." He added that the figures of the work being done on Venice housing rehabilitation are open to Echols or any Venice alderman who wishes to review them.

Downing admitted that the county has been slow with the rehab program because "it is a lengthy process. It is purposefully designed to be very thorough and proper because we are dealing with private property. We want to do the best job we can with the limited funds we have."

He said that rehabilitating a home requires a half-day inspection, seven or more hours of a work writing, a second inspection, preparation of specifications for the work, reviews, preparation of cost estimates to determine if the property and work is within the grant guidelines, distributing the bid specs to five contractors, waiting two weeks for them to bid, evaluating the bids in detail and then holding a pre-construction conference with the low bidder. Work then can begin.

Many times, all of that work is stated when it is determined that the home will cost more than the $7,500 maximum grant to bring into compliance with all safety requirements and it is discovered that the owner does political influence.

"I would like, Mr. Mayor, that the council go on record and demand a full-fledged federal investigation into the allocations and handling of community development funds in Madison County," Ervin said.

Several aldermen commented on problems with the Edwardsville CD office. After a brief discussion, Mayor Tyrone Echols called for a roll call vote to officially request the investigation.

Mayor Echols then informed the council he was to attend a meeting at 2 p.m. today with representatives of Granite City, Madison and local townships to discuss ambulance service and fees. "I expect there may be a possible increase in fees," he said.

"We, here in Venice, are finding this quite costly and need to find a better method of collecting (ambulance bills). We just cannot afford $10,000 to $15,000 in ambulance calls. These bills are getting out of hand," Echols said.

The city, under contract with Granite City's ambulance service, is obligated to pay ambulance bills for residents who refuse or are unable to pay them. Increases in basic service charges for out-of-G Granite City ambulance calls from $95 to $125 each and

Election date nears

Crosses may not be in full bloom as yet in Illinois, but it will be springtime in the hearts of those who triumph in the March 16 primary election. Chief interest here is focusing on the three-candidate Madison County treasurer race and on two-way and three-way County Board competition.

House-to-house contacts and other campaign activities have been building in momentum for several weeks. They will be nearing fever-pitch this weekend, especially for those contests where the outcome still seems uncertain.

Candidates' signs and circulars are becoming more evident with each passing day. Even office-seekers who are heavily favored say they are continuing to "run scared," defined as devoting all the time and energy they have to their election hopes.

All are urging a large turnout, but Ronald D. Michaelson expects only 30 percent of the registered voters to cast primary ballots.

Executive director of the State Board of Elections, he acknowledges that 40 percent voted in the 1980 primary—but notes that a president and U.S. senator

Maeras not required to serve jail term

John Maeras of Madison, former Madison County sheriff, will not have to serve any of his 15-year prison term on a federal racketeering conviction because he is dying of cancer. That was the conclusion reached by a U.S. district judge Monday who ordered the permanent suspension of Maeras' sentence.

The decision made Monday was the result of a new medical opinion from a doctor appointed by the court to review records on Maeras' condition.

On Jan. 5, 1982, at a court hearing in East St. Louis, Bruce Cook, Maeras' attorney, submitted a letter from Dr. Shabbir Safdar, an associate professor of clinical medicine at Washington University in St. Louis, which indicated that Maeras had only about two months to live, in the doctor's opinion.

U.S. Attorney Gerald Fines requested that U.S. District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman, who had imposed the sentence on Maeras, order an independent medical examination by a court-appointed doctor, to determine if Maeras could receive adequate medical treatment in prison.

Judge Ackerman and Fines select the doctor and Dr. Marc K. Wallace, head of surgical oncology at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, was selected.

Dr. Wallace examined all records and documents related to Maeras' health and reached various conclusions, according to Fines, who said it is his understanding that Dr. Wallace did not actually examine Maeras, but only his medical records.

A letter from Dr. Wallace, read to the court Monday in Springfield, stated, in part, "One cannot predict the exact length of survival, but to the best of my knowledge, as the disease has spread from the lungs to the abdomen and previously metastasized to the brain, his chance for long-term survival is quite poor."

"I do not feel that the patient could receive adequate care in the federal prison system. At this stage of his disease, he could best be cared for in the home."

"It would not think it would be in the best interest of justice to send him to prison for the few remaining months of his life."

On Jan. 5, 1982, told the Press-Record Tuesday, "I did not oppose this decision, based upon the recommendations of the doctor."

Fines said that Maeras' former chief of field operations in the sheriff's office, John Cooper of Granite City, and Leland Stoller of Nashville, Tenn., a former fund-raiser for the sheriff's department, have not yet begun to serve their sentences because their attorneys have filed a motion for a hearing to reduce those sentences. No date for that hearing has been set, according to Fines.

Judge Ackerman is to set a date and place for the hearing. "I expect it to be very shortly," Fines added.

Cooper has been sentenced to serve 15 years in federal prisons for his part in alleged racketeering activities and Stoller faces a three-year sentence. The three were convicted three years ago in federal court in Alton. Their appeals, first to the U.S. Appeals Court in Chicago and then to the U.S. Supreme Court, were rejected and Cooper and Stoller were to have reported to prison in late January. "Stays of the prison minimums were issued when they appealed for reduced sentences."

RICHARD PECK

DONALD REA

HOMER BOOTHMAN

Richard L. Peck, 56, of 2011 Sixth St., East Madison, is seeking renomination to the Madison County Board in District 25 next Tuesday. Opposing him in the Democratic primary are Homer Boothman and Donald Rea.

Elected to the County Board in 1980, Peck previously served as Nameoki Township tax collector for four years, 1974-78, and was vice-president of the Collectors Association. Employed by the Norfolk and Western Railway Company for the past 39 years, with experience in the Rate and Revision Bureau, he was born in Madison and has been a Quad-City area resident for most of his life.

Peck has served as president and treasurer of the local lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks.

In the NW Credit Union, he has been a member of the board of directors and chairman of the supervisory committee.

The candidate was a Democratic precinct committeeman for eight years.

He is in his second year on the County Board, where he has served on four committees, Highway Right-of-Way, Special Sewer, Taxation and Public Aid. He has been a member of the board of auditors of the Elected Officials of Madison County.

He resides here with his wife, Naomi, and their daughter, Terri, a student. Their son, Richard, is married.

A member of various citizen committees over the years, Peck is of the Pentecostal faith. In World War II, he served in the Army in the European, African-Middle Eastern and Asiatic-Pacific theaters.

He attended Troy, Granite City and Madison schools and the Summers College of Commerce in East St. Louis. His philosophy as a County Board member is to "serve with an open mind. I do my best to support the people of the district, and I will always do what I feel is right."

Donald C. Rea is in a three-way Democratic primary race next Tuesday for District 25 member of the 28-member Madison County Board. Also running are Board Member Richard Peck and Homer Boothman, a former board member.

Rea resides in Pontoon Beach, Peck in East Madison and Boothman in State Park Place.

Rea, 43, a longtime Granite City Steel technical services metallurgist, is a veteran trustee of the Village of Pontoon Beach, having been initially elected to that board in 1973.

He joined the steel firm in 1969 and has resided in the village for the past 16 years.

Married and the father of three, the native East St. Louisian graduated from East St. Louis High School and studied business administration at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Rea was the charter secretary of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club and has been active in the Granite City Steel Management Club, Little League baseball and the Boy Scouts. He is a past member of United Steelworkers Local 67.

The candidate served in the Marine Corps for three years.

Formerly a member of the Pontoon Beach Zoning Board of Appeals, he has been an active village board member, serving on all of the committees at various times.

MEETING ON MERGER
General Steel Industries has set March 31 as the date of a special meeting of shareholders to consider its proposed merger with Lukens Steel Company. The meeting had previously been scheduled for March 18.

Foxy material for the special meeting was mailed to shareholders this week.

FRED PANTER
For County Treasurer

Homer M. Boothman, a former member of the Madison County Board, is seeking the Democratic nomination in Board District 25 next Tuesday.

He is running against Board Member Richard Peck and Donald C. Rea. The primary winner will be the Democratic candidate for the board position in the Nov. 2, 1982, election.

Boothman, 61, who resides in State Park Place at 3208 Fairmont, also is running March 16 for Democratic committeeman in Nameoki Precinct Four. He served as the committeeman for a number of years but the incumbent in that post is, James F. Counts.

Elected to the County Board in 1972, Boothman was re-elected in 1976 and then lost in the 1980 election.

A State Park Place resident 30 years, he was born in Washington Park and graduated from Collinsville High School.

Boothman is a brick-mason. He served on various County Board committees, including the Special Sewer Committee, Finance Committee, and Tax Committee, chairing the latter group.

The candidate is married and the father of five children ranging in age from 28 to 16. He has served as a State Park Baptist Church deacon and is a Mason.

He also has been active in the PTA, Boy Scouts, volunteer firemen's association and State Park Improvement Association. Regarding County Board service, he has commented, "I am interested in people and how their tax dollars are safeguarded and used."

Father Guild director emeritus of the Shrine

Father Edwin J. Guild has been appointed director emeritus of the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

Father Donald Bargen, provincial of the United States Central Province of the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate, made the appointment in recognition of Father Guild's "role as a founder and director of the Shrine and superior of the Oblates there for 18 years."

In an official letter from the Provincial, Father Bargen commends Father Guild "in your years of leadership, you instilled a sense of 'pilgrim' as integral to the experience of ourselves as church. As director emeritus of the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows, you can provide a great ministry in greeting people who come in the spirit of a pilgrim with the yearning for prayer and peace."

he said in the letter Father Guild will be available daily to visit, pray, and reflect with visitors to the Shrine.

Deadline for applications for artist-in-residence

Monday, March 15, is the deadline for schools and community groups to apply to the Illinois Arts Council Artists-in-Residence Program for school year 1982-83. Artists interested in 1982-83 residence positions should apply to the IAC by April 15. The IAC Artists-in-Residence Program is designed to help children and adults explore and develop their own creativity and imagination by working with a professional artist. Residencies are available in architecture, creative writing, crafts, dance, film, folk arts, music, theater, video and visual arts. Creative writing residencies may last from one to four weeks; residencies in other disciplines last two, four, or eight months.

While in residence, an artist spends 20 hours each week in school and community activities. The remaining time is reserved for his own professional work. An artist is provided with a studio or rehearsal space, a budget to cover supplies, guest artist fees and travel expenses. Plus a monthly stipend of $1,250. Costs to local sponsors range from one-quarter to one-half of the total residency budget. The remainder is provided by the IAC and the National Endowment for the Arts. Depending on the type and length of the residency requested, the local cost ranges from $300 for a one-week creative writing residency to $5,000 for an eight-month residency. Sponsor applications for the A-I-R Program must demonstrate community and school participation in planning, implementation, and evaluation of the residency.

For further information and applications, contact Barbara Reed, AIR coordinator, Illinois Arts Council, 111 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60602; telephone 312-793-8750.

South High to host county band contest

More than 1,500 grade school pupils from various Madison County school districts will assemble Saturday at Granite City High School South for a special music event. The occasion is the annual Illinois Grade School Music Association Solo and Ensemble Contest during which the youthful musicians will perform and receive ratings on their selected solo and group performances.

Serving as dual hosts for this year's contest are Granite City High School South and the South High Band Parents Association. The students competing will be band and orchestra members, vocal music pupils and pianists, according to Vivian Raffaele, contest chairman.

Miss Raffaele said 17 judges will be responsible for the rating process.

Among the participating schools are: Alton North Junior High, Alton West Junior High,

GC spelling bee Saturday

Preliminaries are now completed and plans are underway for the sixth annual Granite City Community Unit School District 9 a.m. Saturday at Coolidge Junior High School, to which the public is being invited. Each elementary school has selected a winner and a runner-up (alternate) in each of three levels of participation—primary (second and third grades), lower intermediate (fourth and fifth grades) and upper intermediate (sixth grade).

As the building winners were chosen, they were presented ribbons by their principals. The building winners will compete with each other in the district spelling bee at which the three district level winners and first runners-up will receive trophies. In addition to the trophies, each of the three district winners will receive a dictionary.

All sixth grade building winners also are eligible to compete in a metropolitan area spelling bee sponsored by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat later this year.

The chairman of the local bee is Agnes P. Fryntko, principal of Parkview School. Pronouncers for the Saturday event will be Beverly Scroggins, teacher at South High School, Charlotte Griffith, teacher at Coolidge, and Donna Clow, department head, Michael

Promotion for GC native

John S. Callon, president and chief executive officer of Callon Petroleum Company, has announced the election of John L. Schwager, a Granite City native, as vice president and manager of Callon Royalty Programs.

Schwager graduated in 1970 from the University of Missouri at Rolla with a bachelor of science degree in Petroleum Engineering. He spent 10 years working for Shell Oil Company in various supervisory positions.

During this time with Shell, he specialized primarily in the economic evaluation and the mechanical design of wells and surface equipment for deep gas environments. His last position with Shell was drilling superintendent in the offshore division, Gulf of Mexico.

Schwager joined Callon Petroleum Company in April, 1980, as the Royalty Program engineering manager. In this position, he has been responsible for the development and maintenance of economic models, including price forecasting for all deep gas trends in the United States. He also has developed a computer system which monitors all U.S. deep drilling activity and updates the models.

In addition, he supervises acquisition efforts for the Callon Royalty Programs in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida and part of the Anadarko Basin. He has supervised investments in excess of $20 million in these areas in the last two years.

In making the announcement of Schwager's promotion, Callon stated, "His election as an executive officer of the company and his designation as manager, Callon Royalty Programs, are the result of his outstanding performance since joining the company less than two years ago."

Schwager is married to the former Carol Adams of Summit, Miss., and has two sons, Jack and Casey. John also has a daughter, Melanie, who lives in Pittsburgh.

not have the resources or the credit to obtain the money or a low-interest loan to complete the work.

Downing said that when the county rehabilitates a building, "we leave it with a remaining economic life of 20 years. It would be embarrassing if a house we redid fell apart in a year," he noted.

Venice charge

"It takes a lot of time from start to finish to do a good job on a house," he summarized.

Another problem he cited is that there is a sufficient number of applications in Venice to use up the entire grant amount the city is to receive, but the city council has requested community development to take $85,000 of that money out of the housing program, and earmark it for a community center fund. If that request is honored, a great deal of time and money spent preparing houses in Venice for rehabilitation will be wasted, he contended.

Chouteau wins overtime dispute

Chouteau Township received a jury verdict in the township's favor at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in conjunction with the case of two former employees requesting overtime pay during the early part of 1977.

According to the payroll records for Hubert E. Futch and Robert E. Miller, highway employees under former Chouteau Township highway commissioner Jim Estes, the men claimed 24 or more hours of work a day for three consecutive days.

Official time records approved and signed by Estes while he was road commissioner, were turned in to the Chouteau Township Board of trustees, requesting pay for more than 34 hours per day of work on Jan. 28 and 29, 1977, and 24 hours on Jan. 30, 1977.

Each of the men requested a total of 28 hours Jan. 28, 1977, 27 hours each on Jan. 29, and 24 hours each on Jan. 30, according to the time records, approved at that time by Estes.

The Town Board refused to pay the overtime and the employees hired Attorney Leon Scroggins to help them collect the money.

The trial began on Monday in Edwardsville and the jury deliberated from 11:30 a.m. Wednesday until 1:30 p.m., when they returned the verdict in favor of the township.

Progress of the court case was a main topic of business at Monday night's regular meeting of the Chouteau Township Board of Trustees.

In other business conducted at the regular meeting, the board agreed to proceed with plans to enlarge the office of Marion Sparks, tax assessor, located in the Chouteau Town Hall.

Walter "Dick" Sparks, township supervisor, said he has contacted Architect John Rapp, who will prepare drawings, prices and salaries for the project and present it at the next meeting for the trustees to consider. Rapp verbally told Sparks that he will supervise the job at a maximum cost of $665 and, should the cost be below the quoted price, he will reimburse the township for the difference.

Sparks also is to meet at 2 p.m. today in Granite City to discuss the proposed increase in ambulance fees for residents of Chouteau Township, with Mayor Paul Schuler and other interested officials.

60 attend Winter Forum

St. Elizabeth Medical Center served as host for Church Women United's Winter Forum. Sister Mary Thomas, president of the Medical Center, welcomed approximately 60 area church women to the day-long meeting and luncheon.

The program, presented by the SEMC Social Work Department staff, explained the services and resources they provide to the community.

Areas covered were: ARCH (Alcoholic Rehabilitation Community Home); psychological testing; obstetrical social work; mobile meals and home health; stroke and other rehab programs; oncology; psychiatric care; emergency room counseling services and the newest program, Lifeline.

At the afternoon session, Ralph Hausman, director of the Social Work Department, along with Bob Turck and Bonnie Lester, two staff social workers, presented a "stress relief workshop." The women were given not only the "cause and effect" of stress, but through self-testing techniques were able to evaluate their own personality types and methods of dealing with stressful situations. Suggestions were given for lowering stress levels, alternative coping methods, and information on relaxation.

Church Women United officers for 1982 are: Mrs. Nona Cozillus, president; Mrs. Ola Jones, vice-president; Mrs. Catherine Ponce, secretary; Mrs. Jane Kennerly, treasurer, and Mrs. Marie Gordon, forum chairman.

Mrs. Corzillus announced that May Fellowship will be held on Friday, May 7, at Bethel AME Church in Madison.

Comptroller candidate challenges incumbents

State Comptroller candidate Calvin Skinner, running on the theme, "The Taxpayer's Watchdog," briefly campaigned in Granite City last week following his appearance at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner of the Madison County Republican Party. Former State Rep. Skinner, from Woodstock, Ill., has no Republican Party opposition in the March 16 primary election. He opposes incumbent Democrat Roland Burris in the November general election. Skinner, 39, holds a master's degree in public administration. He was treasurer of McHenry County, and worked with the Bureau of the Budget, before he was named to the Office of Management and Budget. Taking an aggressive stand on the campaign trail, Skinner said, "I can't think of anything the state government does well." The candidate said he would like to see the role of state comptroller expanded to include a questioning of expenses, rather than the passive "paper" role he perceives the current comptroller to take. Skinner said he wants to use his office to "point out inappropriate state funding." If elected, as part of his plan to broaden the scope of the office, Skinner said he would search out programs with benefits that do not exceed their cost.

The candidate said he wants to involve himself in "all sorts of fights that should be fought." He said he took an active role as a state representative, "blowing the whistle" on state spending. Skinner said he wants to be the official in state government who taxpayers come to with their "tips" on wasteful spending.

Skinner was critical of the supportive role that downstate taxpayers were being asked to play in keep the Chicago Transit Authority afloat. He also describes himself as a critic of "government bailouts of private industry."

Skinner said the power of the state comptroller — the finance officer of the state — depends on the desire of the person holding the office. He said a comptroller can find the means to prevent wasteful conditions, even though such a role is not specifically defined for the comptroller.

One simple method, according to the candidate, would be by strictly enforcing the law, making conditions "obnoxious" for wasteful situations.

Incumbent Burris has served as state comptroller since 1978. Before his election, he was the director of the Department of Administrative Services.

Candidates address Demos

By GEORGE ANN MCGEE of the Press-Record

The Granite City Democratic Club held its second candidate forum last night for the March 16 Democratic primary. Candidates with the central issue being how to attract industry to the area.

About 75 attended the meeting held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Candidates addressing the automatic primary were State Sen. Sam Vadala, State Rep. Sam Wolf and his opponent Leo Pelek, and Regional Superintendent of Schools Harold Briggs.

Treasurer candidates Robert C. Sülle and Fred Painter and a representative of incumbent Michael Henkhaus also spoke briefly.

Vadala, facing Democratic challenger Tuesday's balloting, called himself a firm supporter of labor. He said he places his interests above those of the state as a whole.

Vadala said he stands on his record and attendance in the Senate and said that should give the best indication to the voters on what kind of a job they can expect if he is re-elected.

Vadala said he is currently holding a series of revival meetings with Evangelist Leonard H. Connor of Atlanta, Ga., preaching.

Rev. Luna says he was converted to Christianity while in a solitary confinement cell serving time for murder in a Tennessee prison.

Two weeks ago, while preaching in St. Louis at a revival, Evangelist Luna was asked by Mrs. Helen Hileman and Mrs. Mary Allen, if he would start a church in Granite City.

A contract for the purchase of the building was signed with the Rev. G. M. Rayls, president of the International Gospel Assemblies Inc.

The building is being paid for on monthly installments with faith contributions, he explained.

Rev. Luna stated he is interested in helping youth with problems so they will not have to face the type of life he has had. "Everyone is welcome at our church regardless of race, color or have been," Rev. Luna said.

After release from prison, Rev. Luna has been working as an evangelist for the past three and a half years.

in Granite City.

Manning spoke at the previous candidate forum. Superintendent Briggs, whose educational jurisdiction encompasses Madison County school districts, cited the approximately 80 programs his administration has gotten off the ground during his terms in office.

Briggs said he took particular pride in his accomplishments with the formation of the Madison County Arts Council program. Briggs said the program might help balance anticipated federal cuts in school arts programs, saying that area will probably be the first to reflect lessening federal support.

Briggs said he would especially like to be returned to office to get that program and the infant honor roll program in operation.

Incumbent State Rep. Wolf and challenger Leo Pelek were both concerned about creating a climate that would attract industry to the area.

Speaking first, Pelek contended that his opponent had done little to encourage economic growth in the area and Pelek pledged to actively work towards bringing management and labor together to prevent future problems similar to the A.O. Smith plant closing.

Wolf called himself a labor supporter, backed by several labor organizations in the area. Wolf also acted as the representative of incumbent County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, whom he said was conducting an election judges' workshop that evening.

County Treasurer candidates Stille and Painter took different approaches in their appeal for voter support Tuesday night.

Stille cited his experience in Edwardsville Township in 1976, in particular, his role as township treasurer.

Stille, who said he had been criticized for divided interest as treasurer of the Madison County Transit District, said the only special interest which indicated was his interest in the residents of the Madison County.

Candidates disagree on closeness of election

Outspoken Democratic challenger for state senator, Michael Manning of Granite City, yesterday accused his opponent, Sen. Sam Vadalabene of "legalized influence-peddling on the floor of the Senate."

During a press conference in the 26 Madison County Courthouse at Edwardsville, Manning, 34, contended that Vadalabene's lead in the 36th District Democratic primary race is dwindling. "I'll get a surprisingly large number of votes Tuesday if, in fact, I don't beat him," Manning said of his 67-year-old opponent.

Vadalabene disagrees, saying that he has had several challenges which had him more worried than Manning's current challenge, which he said, "doesn't even come close."

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says that Vadalabene has raised 30 times as much money as Manning, $57,000 to Manning's $1,775.

However, Manning yesterday displayed a campaign letter being sent out on Sen. Vadalabene's behalf which asks for contributions and contends that the current challenge is "One of the stiffest challenges in my political career."

Vadalabene stresses the word "one," in justifying that statement.

Manning also contended yesterday that Vadalabene is "screwed up" and is catering to special interest groups, including big business, doctors and bankers, to raise large campaign contributions, all without regard to the taxpayers.

Vadalabene contended that Manning's verbal assault was predictable, using "sneaky tactics" to "try and panic the voters just before the election. He objected to the use of the term 'special interest groups,' saying, 'that doesn't mean they're getting special treatment.'

Manning also reminded reporters at the press conference that Vadalabene voted in favor of a controversial $8,000-a-year pay raise for legislators. Vadalabene said it cost his constituents an average of four cents a year each and only cost him approximately 4.7 percent more each year, averaged over the last nine years.

Initially, both Manning and Leo Pelek, Democratic candidate for state representative in the 11th District, had called press conferences for 3 p.m. yesterday in the county courthouse at Edwardsville. Pelek called the Press-Record before the conference and said he was cancelling his conference because "I didn't know it would just be Manning and I."

Pelek said he does not wish to ally himself with Manning or any other candidate. "I am running against (incumbent Representative) Sam Wolf and that is all," Pelek stated.

Exhaust fumes kill GC man

Kenneth W. Reckert, 22, of 4 Lexington Court, was found without signs of life in the front seat of a 1974 Lincoln Continental parked in an attached garage at 11 p.m. Tuesday by a friend, Martha McKinney.

An EMT crew was dispatched to the house at 11:16 p.m. They started cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and called for assistance before they transported the man to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was pronounced dead at 11:59 p.m. in the emergency room.

While in the emergency room, police officers spoke with Martha McKinney, who told authorities she returned home at 11 p.m., opened the garage door with an automatic opener and found the garage full of exhaust with the car running. She first went into the house looking for Reckert, but then went back to the garage and found him in the front seat.

She tried to wake him, but could not, then called a cousin and an ambulance. She said he had been depressed lately over the loss of some money with ties to his auto repositioning business and loss of his wrecker, which burned about three weeks ago. He had not slept for two days, she said.

Later, police talked to a Florissant, Mo., man who said he had talked with Reckert on the telephone between 8 and 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Reckert said he was going to drive the car into the garage and just sit in it, the man related.

Pat McKinney of Granite City, a brother of Martha, said Reckert phoned him at 9:15 p.m. Tuesday and asked him to come over as his battery was dead and needed a jump. When McKinney arrived, Reckert was sitting in the car in the driveway, listening to the stereo. McKinney helped start the car and about 9:50 p.m. At that time, he said Reckert, seated in a good mood. The key of Reckert's auto was in the ignition, there was about 1/2 tank of gas, and the vehicle had been backed into the garage and was facing the street when located. There appeared to be no signs of foul play, police said.

Details on funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column of today's issue.

Power outage at medical center

For four hours Monday morning, the auxiliary wing of St. Elizabeth Medical Center was operating on emergency electrical power.

A trash compactor struck a utility pole with two transformers after the compactor broke loose from a truck.

One of the transformers was left beyond repair, the other was damaged, but was back in service Monday afternoon. Another transformer was located after the accident and installed temporarily to re-establish service to the darkened Kaenders Pavilion.

Effected areas included part of the emergency room, social services, public relations, admitting, coffee shop, main lobby and the basement. The effected emergency room areas, radiology and industrial medicine department were all on emergency power during the outage.

Class schedule conflicts eased

Questions concerning academic scheduling at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were answered this week by Dr. Barbara Teters, vice president and provost.

She said she is continuing to explore more efficient use of time and space resources through the scheduling of additional classes, events and activities on Fridays, weekends and evenings.

"We want students to have the opportunity to get the classes they need, and we want to make the best use of our facilities," Dr. Teters said.

"For this reason, we are reiterating the basic policy that was developed in 1971, asking that departments have no fewer than 15 percent of their classes on Friday, that the courses be offered throughout the day, and that evening sections be made available."

The vice president and provost said, "Apparently over the years, there has been a tendency to reduce the number of Friday classes. This has created space, utilization and schedule conflict problems. Her comments on the broader scheduling opportunities:

—Does the move to a five-day class schedule mean that current classes now taught for four hours will be taught for five hours?

"No. The number of contact hours in a course will not change as a result of the five-day schedule. Because we have retained the 50-minute class block, a four contact hour course will almost certainly not be taught over a five-day period."

—Does the change mean that I'll have to come to campus more often?

"Not necessarily. The issue which this change addresses is that of class conflicts."

"Spreading those courses that we teach, so that some of them are taught on Friday instead of one of the other days, for example, means that fewer classes conflict with each other. This makes curriculum choices easier for students."

—Won't the five-day week cost me more in terms of travel, etc.?

"In some instances, it may. That depends on what classes a student wants to take and when those are available."

"On the other hand, increased scheduling opportunities may make it possible for a student to pick up additional classes without which that student might need to attend SIUE for an additional quarter or more."

—I understand that all classes will begin on the half hour, and that two-hour blocks will begin on the even half-hours. Why is that?

"One of the scheduling problems involved overlapping two-hour blocks of classes."

"When that occurred, a student was effectively prevented from taking both. A similar problem arises if classes begin (and thus end) at different times."

"The definition of starting times was given in order to reduce this difficulty," she concluded.

Computers is PTA program

Doug Pascoe introduced Tim Zarlingo of Centaurus Computers at the March P.T.A. general meeting. His demonstration on the Apple II computer was interesting, and he explained the ability of the computer and how it can be of help in teaching children.

This is the newest equipment being used at a few of the schools. Johnson School is looking forward to offering this computer to the students. Within a few years, about 90 percent of the homes will have their own personal computers like the Apple II, the speaker explained.

Congratulations were extended to Andrew Wolf on his essay that was entered in the Cultural Arts contest. He read his essay, "What Makes Me Smile," to the P.T.A. members. His essay will be entered into the state contest to be judged, it was noted.

The Granite City Area Council of P.T.A. awarded Bob Burns and his fourth grade class the "traveling Oscar" for their bulletin board display entitled "What Makes Us Smile."

Judy Russell received a gift of $10 for the most parents in attendance at P.T.A. for the school year. Her class also won the attendance banner for this month.

Other prizes were given to Lisa Bain, Dan Grubbs, Becky Seay, Renee Wolf, and Willie Stover. Cathy Collins, Becky Seay, and Sharon Grubbs were nominated to be the delegates at the Area Council Convention in Chicago.

Officers elected for the next school year were president, Evelyn Robinson, vice-president, Willie Stover, recording secretary, Sharon Mertz, and corresponding secretary, Linda Wozniak, and treasurer, Laura Falter.

A skating party is being planned for March 25 at the Stardust Skating Rink. There will be more information in the weekly newsletter, the president said. The fourth grade mothers provided the refreshments for the evening.

Lauren Wilkinson marks first year

A party was given to honor Lauren Elizabeth Wilkinson on her first birthday, by her parents Timothy and Lori Wilkinson. Cake and ice cream in Valentines decoration was served. The guests included Dorothy, Susie, Glenn, and Lexy Oliver, Debbie, and Steven Sander, Lorraine, Eddie, Barb and Bobbi Wilkinson, Renee Bivens, Doug, Vicki and Elizabeth Brooks, Diane and Jamie Oliver, Carmel, Evelyn and Paul Austin, Jerry, Sonnet, Ryan, Tammy and Shawn Weeks, Robin and Leslie Whittington, David and Dave Whittington.

were being chosen two years ago, in contrast to 1982.

The number of votes recorded will be somewhat affected by the weather. It has been sunny and warm this week, but the March primary here a decade ago was accompanied by a snowstorm.

Participation by more than the statewide 30 percent estimate is expected—regardless of weather—in the Quad-City area and Madison County, where candidates and politicians take their duties seriously.

For the first time since the 29-member County Board was created in 1972, all of the board positions are being voted on this year.

The impact of the traditional Democratic dominance in this "neck of the woods" appears to have been intensified by the end of cumulative voting and three-member Illinois House districts. Now, instead of 157 legislators being chosen in 59 districts, 118 representatives will be picked in 118 districts.

doubling of mileage charges from $1 to $2 per mile are under consideration. The city also wants the cities and townships to guarantee payment for Illinois Public Aid and Medicare patients of the difference between the full ambulance run charge and the amount paid by IPA (about $48) or Medicare.

The Venice council approved a new dog ordinance which has been under consideration and discussion the past three council meetings. The ordinance carries fines from $15 to $500 for persons letting their dogs run loose and not having dog licenses. The animals must have current anti-rabies shots.

Mistreatment of animals by their owners is also covered in the ordinance. A letter was read to the council from the Madison-Venice Rotary Club, complimenting the city on the work

Election date

Most district and county offices in this region have attracted no Republican aspirants at all, although some GOP standard-bearers may qualify for election on the Nov. 2 ballot by gaining write-in victories next Tuesday.

In addition to choosing nominees for full races, the primary will fulfill another function—deciding outright the holders of a number of party offices. State central committeemen will be elected in each Congressional district and precinct committeemen will be selected in each precinct.

In the 67 precincts that make up the four local townships, polling places will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

As opponents of the 1980 "cutback" amendment predicted, this has squeezed out Republicans in Democratic strongholds, and the reverse in GOP-leaning areas.

A few had anticipated an increase in interest and competition as a result of abandonment of cumulative voting after 110 years of that "anti-sectarianism experiment."

But it has not happened yet. Some say this will change in the future—that potential opponents were discouraged by the fact that many districts were "tailored" to favor incumbent representatives, but that eventually the smaller areas will give more people the courage to plunge into House races.

With cumulative tallying, strategists in the past could encourage one vote for each of three persons, a vote and a half for each of two candidates, or "single shooting" in which three votes were cast for one individual.

Now, that is at an end, and there are uncontested legislative primaries in nearly all portions of the state. One party or the other is showing no interest in 51 of the 118 representative districts.

done by the street department and during the primary election.

A discussion also was held on repairing the roof of the McKinley bridge office. Two price estimates within a few dollars were given and a third one was due.

Since the amount was under that required by bidding laws, the council unanimously, by voice vote, gave the bridge manager authority to have the work done using whom he thought had the best price, materials and warranties.

The road condition was declared an emergency situation and Fields was instructed not to approve any amount higher than bidding laws cover.

It was the feeling of the council that spring rains would be coming long before the council could advertise and take actions on bids and the job was not very big.

Mayor Echols instructed each department head to assign a man to attend a tornado briefing with Benjamin Honorable, civil defense director, on Thursday, March 25 at the Granite City Township building.

Mayor Echols then called attention to a report from the Illinois Department of Correction (IDC) on the Venice jail. The report, which now is posted on the public bulletin board in city hall, gave the Venice Jail an excellent rating.

The report noted the jail meets all the IDC requirements for lockups. The McKinley Toll Bridge report for February 1982 indicated 257,613 vehicles crossing for a daily average of 9,200. This is 968 vehicles fewer during the month the crossings in February, 1981.

out of the city limits.

The spokesman said some merchants also object to the requirement by the city which makes the sale of any type of "sets," such as furniture room sets, liable for separate payments in order to be eligible for separate sales tax charges.

A jewelry store must separately price a wedding and engagement ring for the sake of the tax, regardless of whether or not the items would ever be sold separately.

The spokesman said the merchants are concerned that they were not consulted about the tax before it was imposed and before the retailers had an opportunity to question the methods the city said to subsequently employ.

He said members of Community Spirit feel the tax is "repressive," both to those earning low incomes and to merchants who worry that the tax will scare customers to shop in other locations.

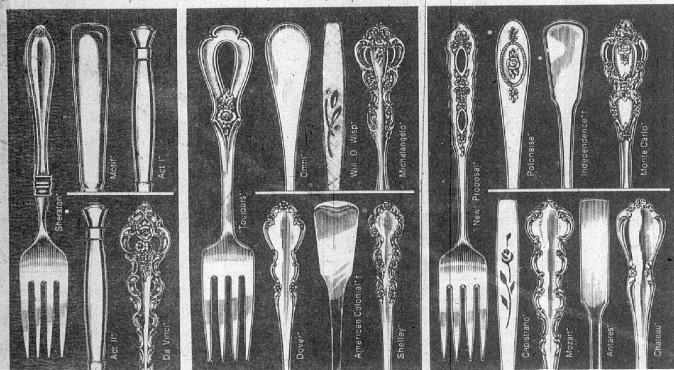

On the other hand, the retailer said, there is a feeling the city obviously needs the additional funds the sales tax now is supplying.

"Perhaps if there were less difficulties in the procedures involved with paying it and (lifting) of the stringent applications of what is taxable and what is not, this group would allow the tax to stand at this time," the spokesman concluded.

Q. I've read quite a bit about Individual Retirement Accounts, both in your column and from other sources. With the new rules, I've pretty well decided to set up an account. Is it difficult to set up an IRA?

A. Not at all. An Individual Retirement Account is simply an investment through a trustee approved by the Internal Revenue Service—in this case, the bank. To open an IRA, you will sign a simple agreement with the bank, and make an initial cash contribution or deposit, much the same as setting up a savings account. If you choose to fund your IRA with 30-month certificates of deposits, your money will be invested just as it would have been had you bought the CD outside an IRA. You may open as many separate IRAs as you wish as long as your total annual contributions do not exceed $2,000. No special IRS tax forms are required. Deductions are simply claimed on your regular tax form, come in and let us spend a few minutes with you, setting up your new IRA.

NOW president to honor local women

Presentation of the Sixth Annual Alice Paul Awards will be made by Linda Polley Miller, Illinois state president of the National Organization for Women (NOW), at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Religious Center, Monday, March 22, at 7 p.m.

These awards are presented each year by the Metro-East Chapter of NOW to three outstanding women in the area, persons judged to have been most unselfish and dedicated in giving of their time and efforts to the continuing struggle for improving the status and rights of women.

Linda Miller, state president since May 1981, is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and has a master's degree in education from the University of Pennsylvania. She has been a teacher, and is a mother, homemaker and NOW activist.

At the state level, she has served in various capacities including that of treasurer, public relations and ERA chair. Earlier, she was president of the Springfield chapter and ERA chair.

Her primary involvement has been with the Equal Rights Amendment — "to make our society a truly equal partnership of women and men." Most recently, she, Miller has been involved with the issue of domestic violence.

The program also will include showing of "The Wilmar 8," an inspiring documentary film that tells the story of eight women — bank workers in Wilmar, Minn. — and their two-year fight for equal pay, a struggle with which many women, union members, minority groups and all underprivileged identify. The public is being invited to attend the awards presentation. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1 for children and may be purchased at the door, or in advance from NOW members.

Women's Division hosts St. Pat's buffet, dance

Dinner tickets now are available for the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Women's Division St. Patrick's Dinner Dance to be held Saturday, March 13, at 6 p.m. at the Lions Club Hall in Madison.

There will be Irish entertainment, a traditional St. Patrick's buffet and dancing to Wayne Scannell and the Casuals. Proceeds go to Women's Division community beautification projects and the Children's Christmas Party 1982. There will be a cash bar.

For reservations, those wishing to attend may contact Mary Mateosian, 877-1869, or Shirley Adams, general chairman, 451-9950.

80 hear talk on gardening

Ron Cornwell, University of Illinois Extension advisor for Madison County, presented a program on gardening methods at last week's regular Granite City Trust Bank's 5 Star Club meeting at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church.

Cornwell gave a slide presentation which covered varieties, gardening methods, insect and disease problems and controls, and other topics.

After the program, refreshments were served to all members and guests, numbering about 80.

O'Brien Tire celebrates its 50th year of service to GC

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record
Much has changed in the last 50 years at O'Brien Tire & Battery Service, 3924 Nameoki Road, which celebrates a half-century of service to this area on St. Patrick's Day.

When James E. O'Brien opened the service March 17, 1932, at the age of 29, gasoline was 12.3 cents for regular, 14.8 cents for super, 8½ cents for "blue" gas and 8.3 cents for kerosene.

O'Brien took over the existing filling station of William Kirchner and moved into the tire and battery business. He opened with $132.27 worth of inventory, paid $32.87 in cash and was covered with a note from R.F. Stein for the remainder.

His first gasoline customer was Cliff Edgington from Illinois Power Co. and Ray Brown of Granite City Ice

Co. purchased the first set of tires. O'Brien's first mechanic was Joe Klug.

When Jim and Angie O'Brien retired, they moved to Mount Home, Ark., in January, 1953. Bruce Marler, who started as a car wash boy, bought the business from the O'Briens. It was then a one-bay station with an outside grease rack. It was replaced with a three-bay brick building and store room in 1966. When Marler retired in 1970, the business was turned over to Earl and Marcia Buenger. Earl had been an employee since 1961.

In 1976, a new four-bay service center was added to the complex by the Buengers to help the growth of the expanding business.

Today, gasoline costs 10 times what it did and tires last 45,000 miles, instead of the 10,000 to 15,000 expected lifetime of the older tires sold by O'Brien's.

Today the O'Briens are retired in Mount Home and he is a former rancher and past president and chairman of the board of the First Bank & Trust of Mount Home. He still serves on the bank's advisory board. Angie O'Brien is active in community and charity work and the Marlers, Bruce and Inge, are neighbors of the O'Briens.

The Buengers' two sons, Mark and Scott, have taken a part in the family business and Mark has worked full-time since graduating from Granite City High School South in 1976 and currently is the manager. Scott is attending Eastern Illinois University at Charleston.

Earl Buenger has been on the board of directors of First Granite City National Bank since 1979 and is president-elect of the Illinois Tire Dealers and Retread Association. Board of Directors. He also is involved in the national tire dealers' organization.

He is a member of Elks Lodge 1063 and the Optimist Club as well as being a former member of the board of directors of Paddlers, Inc.

Mrs. Buenger serves as president of the Ladies Evening Guild at St. John United Church of Christ and serves as a member of the Chancel Choir there. She also is a member of the Elkettes and Opt-Mrs. of Granite City and has been active with the Parents Club of Paddlers Swim Club.

O'BRIEN TIRE AND BATTERY as it appeared 50 years ago, left, and as it appears today, right. Many things have changed; including automobiles which now need less service and less frequent tire changes. The business, however, under these sets of owners has continued to adapt and change with the times. Under the co-ownership of Earl and Marcia Buenger, the business will celebrate its 50th year of business Wednesday. Their son, Mark, is manager of the business.

They were married April 30, 1955, at St. John United Church of Christ.

Much has changed at O'Brien's in 50 years, but not the people of the Quad-City area, who remain primarily friendly and trustworthy, according to the current owners.

Everything has grown, except sales of passenger tires, which now last much longer than the older tires, Buenger says. When he took over the business in 1951, they sold only four sizes of tires — 15 and 16-inch passenger car tires, truck tires and the large 700-by-20 tires.

Today, the offering of tires is much larger and a much more extensive inventory is required. O'Brien's commercial and industrial business has "grown tremendously" during the past 20 years, while the sales of farm tires has declined almost as dramatically.

"The farmers have moved away from Granite City," as the city has grown, he noted.

When he started selling tires in 1951, each tire cost from $16 to $20 and those purchasing a set got four free inner tubes in exchange for the old tires, which were used for retreading. Tubeless tires were introduced by Goodrich about 1953 and O'Brien's was the first business to begin selling them locally.

"Everybody knew it (tubeless tires) would never work because there was just no way they would ever hold the air. Now, it is very seldom we sell inner tubes for tires," Buenger noted.

Radial tires, first introduced by Goodrich, drastically changed the tire market in the mid-1960s, Buenger noted. Tires now cost much more, but last four times as long, he added. Buenger has sold every kind of tire from a $2.89 bicycle tire to the $11,600 tires used on industrial earthmovers and loader dozers. The business expanded into selling television sets, lawn mowers, bicycles and other items, but has returned to the basics of tires and batteries, auto repairs and the basic operation of the service station.

Gasoline sales are offered more or less as a courtesy to the customers, according to Buenger, who contends, "We have lost a heck of a lot on that." A few years ago, dealers made 8 to 10-cents a gallon profit on gasoline. Now it is down to 3½ to 4 cents, despite the higher price for gasoline and the extensive cost of keeping the

B.F. Goodrich TIRES

O'Brien's tanks full for motorists. "The people of Granite City have been good to us and we want to offer that service. We offer full service for the same price as others charge for self-service."

He said many of the services offered by the local service station are declining, due to better autos. Stations used to grease their customers cars every 1,000 miles. Now some are driven 5,000 to 7,000 miles between grease jobs. "Some forget to do it at all," Buenger notes. The frequency of oil changes has declined. Batteries last longer and need less maintenance. Tire blow-outs are less frequent, so service calls for tire repairs are few and far between.

Nevertheless, more customers needing less service has enabled O'Brien's to grow with Granite City and Buenger is hopeful that O'Brien's will be around another 50 years to serve the needs of Granite City motorists.

Stille says Henkhaus has wrong priorities for funds

Robert C. Stille, a Democratic candidate for Madison County Treasurer in the March 16 primary, says in a statement that County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus "issued a news release saying he was making his 1981 taxes public and was challenging his opponents to do the same. I assume he meant his income tax records."

"My income tax return is not completed at this time, but when it is, I will be happy to make it publicly," Stille related.

"Insofar as my having other political interests, I was appointed to the Madison County Transit District and serve as treasurer for the district and have not received any compensation for this work. My office is reimbursed for phone calls, and I have received some reimbursement for mileage."

"I spend my time attending meetings, inventorying funds of the district, and whatever else is asked of me as a member of this board in the interest of the people of the district. So, Mr. Henkhaus, I, too, work for the people of Madison County in that capacity and owe my allegiance to them."

"As he stated, I am the supervisor of Edwardsville Township and I have worked for the people in the township—that is what they elected me to do."

"My duties as township supervisor have grown as various programs for the people have grown. My duties do not end at five o'clock in the evening when the office closes."

"I spend many evenings attending meetings for home weatherization, community development, revenue sharing, fuel assistance, etc., in the interest of the people of the township," Stille said.

"If elected county treasurer, I will resign as supervisor of Edwardsville Township. This will automatically vacate the seat I hold on the Madison County Transit board, since my appointment was contingent upon being a township supervisor."

"I agree that the job of the county treasurer is, or should be, a full-time job. If my opponent is working full time for the people of Madison County, how can he justify twelve million dollars in a checking account and not earning interest?"

"I have heard conflicting statements from him as to how long this money was allowed to lie idle in this checking account."

"While Edwardsville Township is, indeed, smaller than Madison County, the last township audit revealed $271,679 in invested funds and $23 in checking accounts. This is the kind of investment practices I would bring to the county treasurer's office."

"The taxes collected, while in the hands of the county treasurer, should be invested at the highest possible rate of interest; however, this is not the county treasurer's money—it belongs to the taxing bodies and prompt payment of taxes to them should be his first priority. "Regarding his statement about my being a building contractor, this has been and will continue to be handled by my son, and I am sure Mick is aware of how thriving the home building business is today with the current economy and interest rates. "He indicated in the press release, that in the spirit of openness, if there is nothing to hide full disclosures should be made to the people."

"Does this not apply to his firing employees from his office—and his refusal to discuss this with arbitrators—in the best interest of keeping the people informed?"

Gardening in March

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

The aftermath of the winter snow is wet, cold soil and this has delayed early gardening this year.

By March is a more typical month for starting outdoor gardening, so be prepared to go to work soon.

Vegetable gardeners have plenty to do as the soil dries and the weather warms. Some tasks are:

- Start tomato and pepper plants for your early plantings. This can be done in doors or in a hot bed or greenhouse.
- Make sure you have seeds and onion sets on hand to plant at the first opportunity. The earliest sowing should include cabbage, kohlrabi, lettuce, mustard, onion, peas, potato, radish, spinach and turnip.
- Treat for soil insects where root crops will be grown. Use 6 ounces of 25 percent diazinon E to cover 1,000 sq. ft. of soil surface, and either water or rototill in.

Harvest Jerusalem artichokes, horseradish and parsnips left in the garden from last year. Harvesting may continue until new top growth appears.

Several of the above suggestions refer to proper soil conditions. This means soil that will crumble when plowed or spaded, or that will fall apart after squeezing it together in your hand.

If it makes a mud ball in your hand or if it sticks to the shovel, hoe or rake, it's too wet.

Working with wet soils destroys soil texture, causing cloddiness. It also restricts root growth and causes hard boiling. If the soil is too wet, wait for a few drying days and try again.

Thaw expected to bring flooding

By MARY RICHARDS
Health Advisor

The weather experts tell us that the unusually heavy snowfalls that have occurred this winter — not only in Illinois but also to the north in Minnesota and Wisconsin — are expected to result in extensive flooding when the Spring thaw begins.

If your area or home is flooded, the state health department wants to caution you that you may be exposed to the health hazards that occur in the wake of the receding water.

Flooded water supplies, contaminated water, damage to perishable foods and problems with the disposal of refuse are conditions that usually exist following a flood. Any one or all of these conditions that usually exist following a flood. Any one or all of these conditions can represent a health hazard; so the Illinois Department of Public Health has some suggestions as to how to make your home safe again.

If your water supply has been flooded or interrupted, persons should boil the water for 10 minutes at a rolling boil before using it. Do not use it for drinking or cooking before it has boiled. Do not add ice to cool it, for this may recontaminate the boiled water.

If there are no facilities for boiling water, there are two other ways to purify the water. The first is to add liquid laundry bleach.

Check the label on your bleach bottle to see how much chlorine it contains. If it contains between four to six percent chlorine, and if the water is clear, add two drops of bleach to one quart or one liter of water. If the water is cloudy or very cold, add four drops of bleach to one quart of liter of water. Mix it thoroughly and let it stand for about 30 minutes.

If the bleach bottle label is gone and you don't know what the chlorine content is, add ten drops of bleach to clear water — and 20 drops to cold or cloudy water. Let it sit for about 30 minutes. Do not add ice to cool it.

If you have no bleach, you can make water safe for drinking or cooking by adding five drops of two-percent iodine — ordinary iodine usually has a two-percent iodine content. Mix the water and iodine thoroughly and let it stand about 30 minutes. If the water is cloudy or very cold, add 10 drops of iodine, and let it stand several hours before using it.

Many people who live in rural areas have private water supplies, and these are more likely to be flooded than the sealed city water systems are.

If your water supply comes from a well and the well is flooded, it should be disinfected. You can do this by adding three cups of liquid chlorine laundry bleach for each 100 gallons of water in the well. Then, turn on all water taps until you can detect the odor of chlorine. When you smell the chlorine, close the water taps and don't turn your water on again for 12 to 24 hours.

After the 24-hour waiting period, turn on your faucets and let the water flush through the pipes until the smell and taste of chlorine has disappeared. The well water should be tested by either your local health department or the state health department before it is used.

If you have further questions, contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Engineering and Sanitation, 535 West Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

Arrest man on traffic charges

Larry C. White, 44, of 2111 Louisa St., was arrested last weekend at 14th and State streets after a Madison police officer alleged that White was operating a vehicle without lights, weaving back and forth over the roadway and nearly collided with another auto.

The officer alleged that an open bottle of whiskey was on the front seat and an open can of beer also was in the car.

White was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving while his license is revoked, illegal transportation of alcoholic liquor, driving without lights and improper lane usage.

During the booking process at Madison police headquarters, White allegedly began struggling with officers and fell backward, striking his head on a door frame.

He sustained a head laceration and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he declined to be treated and was returned to jail. White was released at 12:40 p.m. Sunday upon payment of $302 cash.

A passenger in the vehicle with White, Gerald O. Jones, 43, of 2308 W. 23rd St., was charged with illegal transportation of liquor. He posted his driver's license as bond and was released shortly after being arrested.

CADETTE GIRL SCOUTS, members of Troop 328 have been selected to participate in the 1982 Wider Opportunities events. Sponsored by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., the girls will attend separate projects throughout the country during the summer. From left, Cheryl Lenzi, Dineen Griffin and Diane Oliver. Mrs. Diana Kinder is leader of the troop.

Local scouts selected to attend Wider Opportunities

Four girls from Cadette Girl Scout Troop 328 have been chosen to participate in 1982 Wider Opportunities events, sponsored by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. The girls are Dineen Griffin, an eighth grader at St. Elizabeth, Jill Kinder and Diane Oliver, eighth graders at Coolidge Junior High, and Cheryl Lenzi, a freshman at Granite High South.

Dineen Griffin has been selected as one of the 74 participants in "Rollin' on the River," sponsored by Great Rivers Girl Scout Council in Cincinnati, Ohio. The 2-week event will offer diverse activities such as navigating and piloting a boat, riding a canal barge, camping, sailing, water skiing, finding fossils and restoring a river bank. The girls will also spend part of their time at the University of Cincinnati learning about career opportunities in medicine, agriculture, or the performing arts. Dineen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Griffin, 3208 Newell Drive.

Jill Kinder, who also participated in a Wider Opportunity event last year, will be traveling to Glassboro, N.J., for the "Magical Melodies" event sponsored by Holly Shores Girl Scout Council. She will spend two weeks on the campus of Glassboro State College learning and recording songs of the Girl Scout heritage. The girls will perform in small groups and in larger chorus. The 80-girl and adult participants will be committed to teaching the songs they have learned to others in their home council.

In addition, they will make trips to historic Philadelphia, the Jersey shore, the Mummer's Museum, and a record factory. Jill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kinder, 17 Del Rio Ave. Diane Oliver will be one of 130 girls participating in "Phantasmagoria," sponsored by the Fair Winds Girl Scout Council in Flint, Mich. This event's focus will be the performing arts. The girls will learn about costume design, set design, choreography, makeup, etc. in addition to learning about theatrical production, they will attend a professional summer theatre. The girls will be staying at Camp O'Fair Winds, living in patrols, and enjoying typical camp activities such as swimming, hiking, and boating. Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oliver, 213 Clark Ave.

All three of the girls attending council-sponsored events will spend some time with a Girl Scout family. Their "home hospitality" families will help them make transportation connections and generally make the girls feel at home. These events are also open to girls from other countries.

Cheryl Lenzi is bound for Girl Scout National Center West in Ten Sleep, Wyo., for the "Buckskins and Calico" event. The girls will be in a primitive wilderness, with its vast mesas and deep canyons. They will recall the pioneers of the West by practicing homesteading, skills such as making jerky and churning butter. High school credit in behavioral science and history is available for the event. Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lenzi, 3237 Aubrey Ave.

Program Committee Chairman, Diana Kinder, reported that to date 11 participants have been chosen from the River Bluffs Council to participate in Wider Opportunities. In addition to the events mentioned above, other girls have been chosen to participate in "Studio '82," "Nuts and Bolts of the '80s," "Up the Creek with a Paddle," "You Can Shape the Future," "Furs, Feathers and Fun," and "Inside the Golden Gate." Mrs. Kinder also serves as leader of Troop 328.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rivenburgh

Rivenburgh-McKinney

The wedding of Miss Nancy Lee McKinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McKinney, Rural Route Two, Granite City, and Glenn Edward Rivenburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rivenburgh, 2321 Clark Ave., was solemnized on Feb. 6 at City Temple Assembly of God Church.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon was the Rev. A. E. Cope. Nuptial selections were provided by Vickie Simpson, vocalist, Larry Smalle, guitarist and Mark Cox at the organ.

Escorted down the white carpeted aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full length white chiffon over taffeta gown. The fitted bodice of the gown, etched with sequins and seed pearls, featured a Queen Anne neckline and sheer bishop sleeves, accented with lace motifs.

Her bouffant skirt was fashioned with accordion pleated flounces at the hemline and was repeated on the chapel train.

She wore a lace camelot cap to secured her waltz length scallop veil of bridal illusion, enhanced with Chantilly lace appliques. The bouquet was an arrangement of white, daphne pink and burgundy silk roses intermingled with sprigs of baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Janet McKinney, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids included Donna Chippa, Patty Smith, Linda Leleniewski, Terri Jones, and Norma McCormick, the groom's sister.

They were dressed alike in full length burgundy polyester gowns designed with halter style bodices and full pleated skirts complemented with matching chiffon capeslets.

Each attendant held a colonial bouquet of white, daphne pink, and silk burgundy roses and carnations.

Denise Rivenburgh, the flower girl, wore a burgundy frock similar to the adult attendants and she carried a small circular bouquet of matching blossoms.

The groom chose Rick Harington as best man. Groomsmen and ushers included Donald and Charles Rivenburgh, brothers of the groom, Jay King, Mark Cain, Brian Hill, Jac King and Rob Hill.

Following the service a reception was held in the Chouteau Township Hall and the rehearsal dinner was hosted at Ravenell's Restaurant.

A graduate of North High School, the bride is now employed as a secretary for the government. The groom was graduated from South High School and is currently attending St. Louis University, where he also is employed.

After a wedding trip to Tan-Tar-A Resort in Missouri, the newlywed couple is now residing in Granite City.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin (Patricia) Atkins, 2441 Iowa St., are announcing the birth of their second child, a boy, on March 4, at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Belleville.

The infant has been named Kevin Douglas and he weighed seven pounds, two ounces. He has a 7-year old brother Kenneth Eugene.

The Rev. Seamus Shortall performed a double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening followed by a reception given at Polish Hall in Madison.

Wedding selections, "Sunrise, Sunset," "If," and "Downstream," were provided by Allan Schuler. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length white gown designed with an empire waistline, oval neckline, traced with Venice lace motifs, and bell sleeves.

Husted-Hinson

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Husted

Suburban Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding on Feb. 20 of Miss Cindy Hinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hinson, 2705 Maryville Road, and Michael Husted, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Husted, 2717 Buxton Ave.

The Rev. Harold Garrett performed a double ring ceremony at 5 o'clock in the evening. Organ music was provided throughout the service by Linda Conner.

For her wedding, the bride selected a full length white organza gown designed with an empire bodice featuring a high neckline and sheer yoke, enhanced with Brussels lace and seed pearls.

The long bishop sleeves were accented with Cluny lace motifs and the A-line skirt fell softly into a cathedral length train.

She wore a white camelot cap to secure her veil of bridal illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sandra Rogers served as honor attendant. She chose a formal length pastel blue polyester pleated dress created with a scoop neckline and complemented with a crocheted cape.

She held an arrangement of blue and white carnations intermingled with baby's breath, and tied with satin ribbons.

The groom chose Richard Cooper as best man. James Hinson and Richard Husted, a brother of the bride and groom, seated the guests.

Guests were received by the newlywed couple at a reception held in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Husted, parents of the groom, in their home.

Both young people graduated from South High School. The bride is employed at Belleville Memorial Hospital, and the groom works at McDonnell-Douglas Corp., St. Louis. They are residing in Granite City.

Faith Circle reviews events

Mrs. Eula Meyers and Mrs. Clara Soltoff hosted the Faith Circle in the parlor of the Niedringhaus United Methodist Church. After refreshments the meeting was opened by all reciting The Lord's Prayer led by Mrs. Meyers.

Mrs. Soltoff gave the Lesson and Mrs. Meyers reviewed the highlights of the February executive meeting.

Melanie McFarland and Jackie Brown have agreed to co-chair the reception committee with Georgina McMillan as their assistant.

Forcoming dates of interest included the CWU Spring Institute at Centralia, Ill., on March 29, and Mrs. Dolores Vogeler announced bazaar representatives appointed to date include Dolores Allen, for Love Circle; Mrs. Vogeler for Charity Circle and Geraldine Thomas, Faith Circle.

A discussion was held concerning assistance for future dinners and receptions. A suggestion was made to rotate the responsibility between the circles and ask for volunteers. April 3 will be a Job's Daughters dinner with an expected attendance of 200. It was announced.

March 26 is the date set for the initial potluck dinner to be served at 5:30 p.m. to launch the Key Event project, and the prayer and self denial program is scheduled for the March general meeting with Lorelei Jennings in charge.

The program will be given by Naomi Williams of Virgennes, Ill., and will be on "Music From Yesteryears." She plays the autoharp as well as eight other instruments and presents old hymns as many other musical selections.

Members agreed to donate $300 to the youth director to be used for camp scholarships. Mrs. Jennings suggested each circle purchase a book which later would be put in the church library.

Mrs. Marylouise Niepert gave the devotion taken from the book, "Best Wishes," by Harold E. Kohn. The chapter reviewed was on The Last Thing I Want is Security.

Everyone attending the April meeting is advised to bring a bible quote relating to Easter. Others present were Thelma Clements, Madonna Groshong, June Karandeff, Ella Ray Smith, Olga Tierney and Doris Young. Mrs. Meyers closed with meditations.

Partney, Garrett running in primary against Bauder

RODERICK BAUDER

DONALD GARRETT

DAVID PARTNEY

Incumbent Roderick L. Bauder, 708 Third St., Venice, has held the Madison County Board seat from District 23 since 1977. Bauder was appointed to the board in 1977 and was elected to an unexpired term in 1979. He was re-elected to the board in 1980, and all County Board members' posts are on the ballot again this year.

In 1982, he faces opponents Donald Garrett of Madison and David Partney of Nameoki Township in the Democratic primary election March 16.

As part of his campaign, Bauder cites the experience he has received while serving as a County Board member and feels that the years qualify him "to oversee and protect the tax dollars of each and every resident."

"The official said he wants to be sure that tax dollars are used with the highest degree of efficiency and fairness possible."

Besides keeping a tight rein on the county budget, Bauder said he would oppose sewer rate increases and attack the unemployment problem in Madison County.

"I voted against the rate increases for sewers in Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice townships and will continue to oppose any increases," he said.

"Of the unemployment situation, he said, 'The biggest rate is a problem of great magnitude facing us today. I will dedicate myself to reducing the rate of unemployment in Madison County by making the county more attractive to the business community.'"

Bauder said he was instrumental in obtaining "funds through the Madison County Community Development program. This money was used for remodeling homes in my district."

"I also was responsible for obtaining funds to support and to keep operational the Organization for the Advancement of the Handicapped (OATH)."

He serves on three board committees, as chairman of the Environmental Control Committee, member of the Public Welfare Committee and member of the Special Sewer Committee.

Bauder, 58, has worked at Granite City Steel for 32 years and is currently a hot blastman in the blast furnace area.

A U.S. Navy World War II veteran, he is a member of Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307.

A lifelong resident of Venice, Bauder graduated from Venice High School in 1942. He and his wife, Valeria, have one son, Madison County Deputy Sheriff Roderick J. Bauder.

Mapping employee cited for work

Willa M. Hicks of Granite City has received a Sustained Superior Performance Award from the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center.

The award is given to Aerospace Center employees for consistently exceeding the standard of performance for their position. The award is granted after an evaluation of the individual's performance during the preceding 12-month period.

The Aerospace Center, located in St. Louis, provides worldwide aeronautical mapping, charting and geodetic support for the Department of Defense. Aerospace Center products support manned aircraft, aircraft simulators, missile guidance systems and the NASA manned space missions.

Donald E. Garrett, Madison Fifth Ward alderman and a member of the Madison Community Unit School District 12 board, is seeking to represent District 23 on the Madison County Board.

He is running against fellow Democrats Roderick L. Bauder and David Partney in the March 16 primary election. Bauder is the incumbent.

Garrett, 48, was appointed to the screening committee of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee last November and served on the panel that evaluated primary candidates for regional and countywide offices.

His dual County Board campaign platform contains a promise to fight his own district's geographic guidelines, in order to have the boundaries redrawn, and to try to bring more jobs to the local area.

Garrett says District 23 exists in three widely scattered areas, with portions in the Venice-Madison area, West Granite City, and the extreme northern part of Granite City and Nameoki Township.

"This is unfair to the residents of those areas. They are entitled, by law, to exist in a district which is both compact and contiguous. None of the areas have anything in common," Garrett said.

"There are no business or commercial development, and no city or township political ties," he added.

The composition of the district an "insult to all the people who reside within it."

Garrett said the district should be abolished for two reasons: to fit legal guidelines, and to give people the right to elect a representative who is from their immediate area.

"I will do everything I can to see that this 'simplic' act of justice is done," Garrett said.

"If that fails, I will use the salary paid to me as a County Board member—and all other monies that I can raise through a fund-raising committee I will establish—to institute legal proceedings to have the district abolished and redrawn."

Garrett's other priority — to bring more jobs to the area — would "meet the two major needs of the district, which are a larger tax base and greater work opportunities."

"A look at the map will show that the district contains a lot of land that is ideally suited for industrial and commercial development, and which at present is grossly underutilized," Garrett commented.

"I will work with the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce to establish a group of 'Business Ambassadors' especially for the purpose of putting all the undeveloped land in the district to use."

Garrett has served as a Madison school board member since 1977 and has been a Fifth-Ward alderman since 1975. He is the Venice Township Precinct Five Democratic committeeman. He is graduate of the former Dunbar High School and has attended Washington University and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Garrett resides at 401 W. 2nd St., Madison. He is the father of one child, 10, and is a member of Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church. He is the owner of Don Garrett and Associates, Public Relations.

One of three candidates for the Democratic nomination to the Madison County Board in District 23 is David E. Partney, currently a member of the Granite City Board of Education.

Also running in 23 are Donald Garrett of Madison and Roderick Bauder of Venice. Bauder is an incumbent member of the County Board.

Partney, 38, resides at 2273 Shirlene Drive in Nameoki Township. He and his wife, the former Janet Morris, are the parents of Douglas, 13, David, seven, and Denise, five years old.

A lifelong resident of the local community, Partney was born in Granite City. He is a son of the late Mayor Donald Partney Sr.

Currently president of the Tri-Cities Area Chapter of the American Red Cross, the board candidate is manager of Granite Sheet Metal Works, Inc. He is an owner of the Mercer, Thomas and Lahey-Sedlack funeral homes.

He graduated from Granite City High School and studied business management at Southern Illinois University.

Past president of Granite City Jaycees, Partney is a member of Masonic Lodge 877, Almad Temple Shrine Club, Tri-City Shrine Club, Scottish Rite, Low Twelve Club, Granite City Moose Lodge 272 and Teamsters Local 528.

He served as chairman of a Jaycee rodeo and a Granite City homecoming.

The Army veteran has been a member of the Amvets, American Legion, Nedringhaus and Maryville PTA units, DeMolay, Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign staff, Granite City Crippled Children's Association, John United Church of Christ, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and its Sewer and Drainage Committee.

Also, the Granite City Animal Shelter Committee, Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association, Tri-Cities Sheet Metal Contractors Association, Society of Iron and Steel Engineers, Granite City Rotary, Madison County Hospice and Sheet Metal Local 268 Joint Apprenticeship Committee.

He told the Press-Record, "I will be the most qualified candidate to represent County District 23 because of my labor and business background."

"A large part of the district is in Madison County Special Service Area 1 (the sanitary sewer service area), in which I also live."

"The people in the sewer district are overtaxed and overcharged for their sewage treatment," Partney commented.

"I will work toward holding these costs down. I will try to give more service to the entire district, and will listen to citizens' recommendations concerning major issues."

David Partney was elected to the District Nine school board in April 1979 and his original term has been extended to November 1983 by the state election consolidation law. He is a brother of a County Board member, Daniel Partney, who is retiring from the District 21 board position.

A candidate for Nameoki Township assessor in the 1981 election, David Partney in 1970 and 1974 ran for a Democratic state representative nomination.

Teachers will oppose budget cuts

The Illinois Federation of Teachers in conjunction with the American Federation of Teachers has announced a letter-writing drive to generate thousands of letters to Illinois Congressional representatives and senators in an effort to stop federal budget cuts.

The 45,000-member organization of teachers and other education workers has set the week of March 15 as a period when IFT members will gather in local union meetings throughout the state to discuss ramifications of proposed cuts in federal aid to education and to write letters to their congressmen and senators.

IFT Executive Secretary-Treasurer Ken Drum said last week, "Federal budget cuts mean fewer total dollars to be spent by the government on public schools."

The Reagan budget has asked for a $9.9 billion budget for federal education programs for fiscal 1983.

"If enacted, the cuts would result in $2.9 billion less than the $12.8 billion allocated for fiscal 1982 under the continuing resolution in Congress."

"State Superintendent of Education Donald G. Gill has stated that federal school funding for Illinois would be cut next year by almost 11 percent—down $38 million to $316 million."

"The statewide total for 1983-84 would be down almost another 11 percent from the 1981-82 level, for a federal funding package of $279 million."

"During the two budget years, Illinois would be hit by $38.1 million in Title I cuts and $30.1 million in special education cuts."

"The 2-year reduction in Title I funds would eliminate services to 35,000 Illinois school children."

Drum stressed that the campaign to direct letters to Congressional representatives is only the first phase of "ACT and IFT's drive to stop Reagan and Thompson efforts to scuttle public education. Attention will soon be directed at state legislators," he concluded.

ACT workshop set March 20

An ACT (American College Testing) Preparation Workshop will be conducted at Belleville Area College March 20, but those who intend enrolling are requested to register by Friday.

Advanced registration forms are available in the Guidance Office at Granite City High School South. Those interested may contact Tony J. Adkerson, ACT test supervisor, at 877-1512.

Students may be able to improve their test scores by attending the workshop, according to Mrs. Adkerson.

The ACT examination is required for admission to all state colleges and universities in Illinois, as well as many private schools.

Students who wish to be considered as an Illinois State Scholar must take the ACT in April or June of their junior year in high school and have their scores sent to the Illinois State Scholarship Commission.

South will give the ACT test April 3.

The all-day workshop should help students improve their test-taking behavior; increase their knowledge about the ACT test; help students who feel worried or nervous about the test; aid students who plan to take the SAT test, and help those who do not have extensive experience taking standardized tests.

According to Mrs. Adkerson, students who attend the workshop will be taught techniques for taking standardized admission tests and will learn how to manage time and pace themselves through the test.

Students will have an opportunity to examine the various types of questions in each section of the ACT. Parts of the test will be scored and interpreted during the workshop.

The workshop will cost $25 and the fee includes an actual preview of the ACT examination, materials and lunch.

Troop 7 holds anniversary celebration

Boy Troop 7 Scouts observed the 72nd year of scouting with an anniversary month party.

The celebration was highlighted by various events. Cobra Patrol won the letter-writing drive to generate thousands of letters to Illinois Congressional representatives and senators in an effort to stop federal budget cuts.

In a treasure hunt on the grounds of the troop's sponsor, St. Joseph Catholic Church, Senior Patrol Leader Kevin Williamson found a scout pocket knife with the following hints: "I smell like a fish and I am cold."

Assistant Senior Patrol Leader Karl M. Kovich found the second prize, a religious medal, on the hint: "My hat is up in the air."

Matthew 8:26 ... "And he saith unto them, Why are ye so fearful, O ye of little faith?"

The Lord and His disciples were in a ship and a storm arose suddenly. They were about to capsize and ran to waken Jesus from his sleep. He asks them why they are so fearful. After all he was in the ship too. He spoke to the sea and it became calm instantly.

We must always be aware of the fact that Jesus is in our ship also. He doesn't want us to fall or go under. Because when we fall we bring a reproach on God.

He has promised never to leave or forsake us. He that is in us is greater than he that is in the world. We can do all things through Christ. Great faith will banish fear forever.

Have faith in God. Today.

Employees urge income tax hike

Steve Cullen, a state labor official, contends that the governor and legislators are harming "people of Illinois who depend on the state to finance basic public services. They are pointing a gun at school children, the blind, and retarded, and mentally ill children."

Cullen is executive director of Illinois AFSCME (American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.)

AFSCME is calling for a massive demonstration in Springfield on March 24 to "demand budget justice for the people of Illinois and especially those whose lives and futures depend on the continuation of quality government services."

"We will not stand by let our schools, mental hospitals, and other vital institutions go down the drain," Cullen said this week.

"For over a year, AFSCME has pointed out that the general revenue fund (GRF) of the state of Illinois is in severe crisis. Several months ago, the union issued a comprehensive report demonstrating that the effects of the current recession, Reaganomics, and big business tax giveaways cost the GRF one billion dollars in fiscal 1982; in contrast, the Governor proposed only $125 million in new taxes."

Cullen added, "The budget calls for reduction of aid to our financially-strapped schools. The Adler, Bowen and Dixon mental health facilities are to be closed. 'The Illinois Visually Handicapped Institute in Chicago will cease operations April 30. The road fund is in such bad shape that potholes and other road deterioration will go unrepaired."

"While citizens of Illinois suffer these cuts, Gov. Thompson refuses to prevent a loss of nearly $100 million by failing to act to decouple the Illinois corporate income tax from Pres. Reagan's overly generous accelerated depreciation rules.

"He also refuses to eliminate the sales tax exemption from manufacturing equipment and machinery. Big business gets all the breaks and the rest of us get nailed."

"Gov. Thompson, candidate Stevenson and legislative leaders should lock themselves in a room and come up with an immediate tax package to prevent this unacceptable cut in services. 'The proposed liquor tax and insurance tax are starting points. But our leaders must face that fact that significant increases in the state income and gasoline taxes, as well as decoupling from Reagan's corporate depreciation rules, are all necessary in the near future."

DAMAGE BACKHOE

Vandals caused $300 worth of damage to a backhoe tractor by pulling out ignition wires and breaking the gear shift and tail-lights, it was reported last week. The equipment was parked at Ponderosa Steak House, 1511 Johnson Road.

Task force to aid in spring flooding

SPRINGFIELD — Governor James R. Thompson announced last week he has formed a 1982 Flood Task Force to ensure rapid state assistance to local governments if severe flooding problems continue in Illinois this spring.

"A strong potential exists for serious flooding in portions of Illinois during the next few months," Thompson said, "and we will be ready to provide assistance when we can."

Winter precipitation in the form of snow and rain has caused the soil to become heavily saturated with moisture in some areas and spring precipitation could be too much for the soil to handle, causing massive amounts of water runoff.

The task force is chaired by David L. Smith, Chief of Field Services for the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency (ESDA). Daily river stages are being monitored by the task force and ESDA is positioning sandbags and checking all response equipment for operational readiness.

Thompson assured that mental health deficiencies addressed

Governor James R. Thompson has announced that Department of Mental Health officials have assured him that deficiencies cited by recent news reports that have been found to be true have been corrected or are currently being fixed.

Thompson said he has completed his study of a report on the Hickory Hall unit of the Howe Developmental Center in Tiney Park and has had extensive conversations with his staff and Dr. Ivan Pavlovic, Director of the Department of Mental Health.

"I have looked at the report and I am satisfied that all the alleged deficiencies that were found to be true have been corrected or are currently being fixed at Howe," Thompson said. "I also have been assured by Director Pavlovic that the Department will enforce a strict transfer policy that will assure that residents will be transferred from one facility to another without the facility directors of both institutions agreeing that the resident will be transferred to a certified bed and therefore will receive comparable or better care."

New history of the Knights of Columbus

A completely updated history of the Knights of Columbus is coming off the presses of the publishing firm of Harper and Row.

Titled "Faith and Fraternism: The history of the Knights of Columbus, 1882-1982," the 566-page volume is the work of Christopher J. Kauffman, writer and historian, who has served as associate professor of history at St. Louis University. The fruit of four years of intense research, the volume has been hailed for scholarship, thoroughness and objectivity.

Among those impressed by its quality is Mgr. John Tracy Ellis, himself an eminent historian long associated with the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. He stated that the book "makes a significant contribution to the socio-religious history of American Catholics." He added that "it is original in that it focuses on a neglected segment of that community, the laity." He also complimented the author for "genuine scholarship by the thoroughness of the research, the judicious interpretation of the evidence and... admirable honesty."

Father Walter J. Ong, S.J.,

professor of humanities at St. Louis University, praised the volume as "a thoroughly documented and delightfully readable history of a Catholic men's organization shaped unmistakably by American cultural forces as well as by loyalty to the church, still growing and learning after these hundred years."

Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame, paid tribute to "Faith and Fraternism" as "a faithful chronicle of the Knights of Columbus contributions to our national culture."

Sydney E. Ahlstrom, professor of American history and modern religious history at Yale University, called it a valuable book in which the author gives "full attention to the religious and social dimensions" of the Knights of Columbus.

The volume is available in most book stores and has been offered by the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus at One Columbus Plaza, New Haven, Conn., 06507. The pre-publication price was set at $13.25, including postage and handling, giving the direct-mail subscriber a discount of $6.40.

Business fraternity offering scholarship

Belleville Area College's business fraternity, Phi Beta Lambda, is accepting applications for a scholarship offered through the organization.

The Gene Warsala Scholarship, named for a former BAC business student who was killed in a student majoring in a business or business-related field.

The winner will be selected based on scholastic achievement and participation in extracurricular activities. Bonnie Pick, president of Phi Beta Lambda, said.

Applications are available in the BAC Financial Aids Office or from Phi Beta Lambda sponsor James McGowen. Both can be reached by calling the college's main campus, 235-2726.

The forms must be returned to one of those two locations by 3 p.m. Wednesday, March 24. The recipient will be named before the end of the spring semester.

Applicants must have a B (3.0) grade-point average or better and have completed 36 credit hours by the end of the spring 1982 semester. Full-time students in university-transfer and career business programs are eligible.

The scholarship will pay $120 toward tuition at BAC during the fall 1982 semester. It may not be used at any other college or university.

3-way race in District 21

VASIL EFTIMOFF

Vasil Eftimoff, Granite City School District administrative assistant (personnel services) to the school superintendent, is running for a Madison County Board nomination in the Tuesday, March 16, primary election.

The Democratic nomination in District 21 is being sought by Eftimoff, Robert E. Gaughan and Joseph R. McGinness Sr. Daniel Partney did not seek re-election.

Eftimoff, 57, resides at 2800 Michigan Ave. with his wife, Anita. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, where he earned a master's degree in 1964.

The candidate told the Press-Record, "If elected, I will attempt to promote development of the Metro-East region; zoning, attraction of new industry, development of mass transit services, river port development, cooperation with other counties, and continued floodplain development programs."

"I will work hard and be cooperative with other County Board members and other governmental bodies." His campaign is being self-financed.

Executive offices Eftimoff has held are the former Granite City High School Board of Education, 1949-50; Granite City Community Unit District Nine Board of Education, 1950-54; and Granite City Democratic committeeman in Precinct 21 from 1960 to 1964.

Eftimoff has served as president of Coordinated Youth Services and of the Lincoln Athletic Club and as chairman of Lincoln Place homecomings.

A past member of the Granite City Public Library Board, he is a State of Illinois hearing officer and has been appointed to the Shriners' Hospital unit.

Eftimoff served as chairman of the successful $3.7 million bond issue election campaign in the Granite City school district in 1960.

As budgetary chairman of Coordinated Youth Services, he works with a $1.4 million annual community service program. The pupil personnel services portion of the yearly School District Nine budget totals $3 million.

A past Granite City Rotarian, he is active in the DAV, American Legion, Eagles, Lincoln Athletic Club, St. Louis Ambassadors, Illinois Historical Society, St. Louis Zoo Association, Missouri Humane Society and Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

He also has been affiliated with the United Way, the Boy Scouts and the Crusade for Forgotten Children. Eftimoff's educational organizations include the Council for Exceptional Children, Council for Administrators of Special Education and Phi Delta Kappa. He is active in the Southwestern Illinois Housing and Speech Association and the Eastern

ROBERT GAUGHAN

Robert E. Gaughan, 27, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Madison County Board in District 21, is a political newcomer but has served in a public post, he worked previously at the Madison County Courthouse in the circuit clerk's office.

He says he is seeking the board seat as an independent candidate and is financing his own campaign.

Gaughan faces Vasil Eftimoff and Joseph McGinness Sr. in the March 16 Democratic primary. All are running for the position now held by retiring County Board Member Daniel Partney.

"Though the citizens of the 21st County District face a choice among three candidates who have no actual experience as County Board members, I do feel I have sufficient knowledge of the responsibilities of county government to become a working and integral member of the board."

Three of his major priorities, if elected to serve on the board, include:

—Working to achieve an improved drainage system for the Briarcliff area.

—Trying to attract industry to the A. O. Smith Corp. plant site, to help generate employment in this area, and attempting to bring companies into the industrial areas of his district.

—Keeping taxes at a minimum while keeping watch over county expenses. Gaughan said he would try to achieve his watchdog role on county expense by keeping an eye open for any proposed unnecessary or excessive expenditures.

"There are times each of us is a bit overwhelmed by the complexities of our government — not only on the federal level, but also the state and local levels," Gaughan said.

"It is time for the people of District 21 to have a 'full-time' board member, someone they can depend on at any time to give special and immediate attention to their problems and questions."

The candidate has served in the past as chairman of the negotiating committee for International Union of Operating Engineers Local 525.

He is employed as a water pollution control operator at the Granite City municipal wastewater treatment plant.

Gaughan is a past employee of the American Sheet and Strip Steel Corp. and the Metro-East Sanitary District.

Active in Knights of Columbus Council 1085 as a Third Degree member, he also is a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Granite City.

Orthodox Church.

Born and educated in Granite City, he holds a bachelor degree from Illinois College, Jacksonville, and a master degree from St. Louis University.

JOSEPH MCGINNISS

Joseph R. McGinness Sr. is one of three persons seeking the Democratic nomination for the Madison County Board in District 21.

Daniel Partney is retiring from the board after this year. Those running are McGinness, Robert E. Gaughan and Vasil Eftimoff.

McGinness, 42, resides at 2805 Washington Ave. He and his wife, Phyllis, have a son, Joseph Jr., and two daughters, Pennie and Rennie. All three of their children attend Granite City High School South.

A resident of Granite City for 18 years, he is employed at Briggs Transportation Co. in St. Louis as maintenance supervisor and is shop steward of Teamsters Local 618.

McGinness received his education in Kentucky and Illinois, studying the ministry. He is a former pastor and assistant pastor. Honorably discharged after two years of active duty in the Army, he ran in the 1981 Granite City municipal election as a candidate for alderman of the Second Ward.

His goal as a member of the County Board would be "to see that we get the most service for our tax dollars."

McGinness told the Press-Record he would "represent the citizens without regard to the party line." Also, I would work to avoid any drastic tax increases by the county government."

A lifelong local resident, he attended Sacred Heart School and Granite City High School South and attended classes at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Gaughan resides at 1533 Twenty-sixth St.

County arts group plans to aid schools

Formation of a new organization is nearly complete. It is designed to provide services in the arts to public and non-public schools in Madison County.

The organization, a not-for-profit corporation known legally as the Madison County Arts Council, Inc., has a 12-member board of directors representing communities throughout the county.

According to its bylaws, the Arts Council will derive operating funds through donations, contributions and grants.

All proceeds will go toward financial support of programs and services in the arts that can be shared by Madison County schools and communities.

Madison County School Supt. Harold E. Briggs says the "shared" approach will allow schools economical access to educational opportunities in the arts that in view of budget cuts at the federal and state levels, they might otherwise have to do without.

The council's planning and administrative functions will originate from the office of the regional (county) superintendent of schools.

A major fund-raising event sponsored by the Arts Council is being planned for Saturday, April 17, at 5:30 p.m. in the University Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The evening will feature a "mini-showcase of outstanding young talent from Madison County schools."

There will be brief performances by instrumental, vocal and drama groups as well as a book of creative writing and a display of artwork from schools throughout the county.

Residence RANSACKED

Jessie Davis, 1901 Harris St., Madison, reported to police last weekend that someone forced his way into Davis' home by kicking in the front door. Several rooms were ransacked. A 25-caliber automatic pistol valued at $125 was taken along with $200 in cash from a bedroom dresser drawer. The burglar appeared to have been frightened away, due to the way some items were left.

"At 6:30 p.m., a spring arts banquet will feature a sumptuous dinner for those who attend," Briggs says. Proceeds from the event will go toward support of programs planned for the 1982-83 school year.

Tickets for the evening's banquet and showcase are being sold throughout the county until April 15. Ticket price is $25 per person, partly tax deductible. Tickets are available through Marguerite Barker of Granite City, 876-6297, and Billie Bosworth of Madison, 877-3574.

For further information about the Madison County Arts Council, Quad-Cityans may call the office of the regional superintendent, 682-4530.

Itemizing your tax deductions

One of the most basic questions taxpayers have to answer every year is whether or not to file an itemized income tax return.

Deductions you itemize can make a substantial difference in the amount of tax you have to pay, and the key to claiming deductions is good records, says Southern Illinois University at Carbondale tax expert Bart Basi. He is chairman of SIUC's department of accountancy.

You should be able to verify any of the deductions you claim, cautions Basi. Canceled checks and receipts fill this requirement.

Single taxpayers must have at least $2,300 in deductions before they're allowed to itemize them. Married taxpayers' deductions must add up to at least $3,400.

Basi says items which can qualify as legitimate deductions generally fall in the following areas:

- Medical expenses.
- Taxes.
- Interest payments.
- Charitable contributions.
- Uninsured casualty or theft losses.

Medical expenses cover a variety of things. You can include half the cost of medical insurance premiums, to a total of $150. Any other medical expenses must total at least three percent of adjusted gross income (AGI) before they can be itemized as a deduction.

In addition, costs of drugs and medicines must total, by themselves, at least one percent.

Other expenses which might be included in an itemized deduction include medical and dental fees, costs of special equipment and supplies, travel for medical treatment, or home improvements made necessary by a medical condition.

Taxes which qualify for itemized deductions include state and local income taxes, property taxes and sales taxes. Federal income, estate and gift taxes are not deductible.

The interest you pay on loans or other credit debts also may be deducted. This includes interest on your home mortgage, car payments or credit card bills.

One catch on deducting both tax and interest expenses: they have to be your own taxes and loans. Someone else's don't qualify, even if you're paying them.

Charitable contributions must stay within certain limits. Generally, you can't deduct more than half of your AGI for charitable contributions, and the gifts must have gone to organizations approved by the Internal Revenue Service as public or private charities.

Basi cautions that while generosity is a commendable virtue, it only counts with the tax man if you give to an approved charity. Individuals don't have to be in cash, and items which have appreciated in value are especially useful when tax time comes. For example, a gift of stock which cost you $1,000 but now is worth, say, $5,000, may be deducted at $5,000. You save taxes on the $4,000 gain.

Another caution: As far as the IRS is concerned, the time you donate to a charitable organization isn't worth a dime in deductions. But any unreimbursed expenses are deductible.

Casualty and theft losses are things like storm damage to your roof or items stolen by a burglar. You're entitled to deduct any losses not covered by insurance, but the IRS has its own $100 deductible clause that applies to each incident you claim a loss for.

Basi says there is also a laundry list of other expenses that can be used to round out deductions if itemizing. They include union dues, the cost of physical examinations required by your employer, some tools and supplies, and part of the cost of maintaining an office in your home.

It may be poetic justice: you also can deduct the cost of having someone figure your taxes and prepare your returns.

Store employees foil card caper

Granite City police arrested two men last week, who allegedly had used or attempted to use fraudulent credit cards at four area stores. The search for the men began after the manager of Gasen Drugs alerted other businesses in the shopping area.

Charged with four counts each of fraudulent use of a credit card were Jeffrey L. Wilford, 23, of 164 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, and Arthur L. Miller, 23, of Springfield, Ill.

In a court appearance, both men pleaded guilty to the charges. Wilford was sentenced to spend 90 days in jail and Miller received a 60-day jail term.

The two men were arrested at West Pontoon and Namoki roads after a description of one man and their auto was broadcast to police and an officer recognized the passenger from the report.

Inside the car, officers allegedly found a credit card wallet hanging beneath the dashboard, containing 32 various credit cards, a bottle of scotch, a pair of new men's shoes and cartons of cigarettes in paper sacks. Another credit card reportedly was found on the floorboard of the auto and one was in the dash compartment, police said.

The cards were registered to a Springfield couple and allegedly were stolen from a vehicle there on Feb. 24, along with a wallet and watch.

Police said one of the men had gone into Gasen Drugs in Nameoki Village Shopping Center, asked for six cartons of cigarettes and offered a credit card to the manager.

Because of a number of previous incidents of this type, the woman took the card to the office to check.

At this point, the man began acting nervous and said he had an airplane to catch. Finally, he asked for the card to be returned and then left, leaving the cigarettes at the checkout counter. The manager called Trattler's Men's Store, 18 Nameoki Village Shopping Center, and alerted an employee there, who said a man already had purchased a pair of slacks for $40, using a credit card.

The Trattler clerk said the card was reported valid when checked through the clearance process. She informed police that the man got into an older model white auto, driven by another man.

The clerk also called the K-Mart store and found the man was there, but he left before officers arrived, but not until purchasing six cartons of cigarettes. A check through the shopping area proved futile.

One of the men arrested allegedly obtained seven cartons of cigarettes, worth, $44, with a credit card from Walgreen Drug Store, 21 Crossroad Plaza Shopping Center.

Scholarship deadline is March 15

Junior and senior class high school students who are interested in applying for $1,000 college scholarships should request applications by March 15, 1982 from the Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation, 3105 MacArthur Blvd., Northbrook, Ill. 60062.

To receive an application, students may send self-addressed, stamped envelopes with a note stating their names, addresses, cities, states, zip codes and approximate grade point averages.

Fifty award winners will be selected on the basis of academic performance, involvement in extracurricular activities and need for financial aid.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT
Kenneth R. McMannis, 37, of 2446 Bryan Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct last week after a truck air horn was operated repeatedly near a residence in that block, authorities said. He was freed on $52 bail.

Our election recommendations include Ryan, Blair, Price, Vadalabene, Wolf, Miles, Eftimoff, Peck, others

A series of important decisions will be made by Madison County voters in the 1982 primary election next Tuesday, March 16. While this is true, many other preferences cannot be expressed by the voting public until the Nov. 2 general election, due to lack of opposition within the Democratic and Republican parties. The Press-Record urges citizens to make sure they participate in both elections. It is this right of duty that makes such a big difference between our nation of freedom and democracy, and the brutal regimes where communism and fascism have a death-grip on individuals' aspirations.

Our system is not perfect, nor are some candidates as noble and able as Washington and Lincoln.

But, as our founding fathers foresaw, the interplay of voters' knowledge and judgment and emotion, when collectively given voice at the polls, can lead to wise choices.

The public does choose well, more often than not, and tends to create a good balance between its grants of effective government and its restraint of that authority (for the maintaining of "checks and balances").

Our comments tend to deal with the primary campaigns that have attracted rivalry for party nominations. Analyses of the candidates who are nominated next week will be published prior to the November balloting.

The top of the ticket shows no competition for any of the statewide Democratic nominations.

In the Republican primary for governor, the clear choice is Governor James F. Thompson, a two-time winner who hopes to earn a third term as the executive mansion; his March opponents are little-known John E. Roche and V. A. Kelley.

The relative merits of Thompson and Adlai Stevenson III, the unopposed Democratic gubernatorial contender, will likely be evaluated in the fall.

For lieutenant governor, our recommendation is George H. Ryan, present speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives. He is a House member and highly capable. But we would prefer to see Gov. Thompson re-elected on the Nov. 2 ballot with the candidate whom he could work most comfortably with and that is Speaker Ryan.

Ryan's campaign co-chairmen, former Governors Richard Ogilvie and William Stratton, regard him as of gubernatorial caliber when and if Gov. Thompson runs for the U.S. Senate or the presidency. Ryan, as lieutenant governor, would work with the state budget, the legislature, the cabinet, and programs to foster economic and business development.

The Republican state treasurer nomination is sought by W. Robert Blair, a former Illinois House speaker, and John P. Dailey, a businessman, banker and attorney.

Our recommendation is Blair on the basis of his 10 years of experience in state government as a legislator; he was the youngest House speaker ever, holding that position for four years.

Dailey also is an attractive candidate. Although his ideas on constitutional limits for state and local government are appealing, they might create an excessively rigid fiscal framework for those levels of government.

No United States senator is to be chosen in Illinois this year.

For Congress in the new 21st District, Melvin Price is the obvious choice in the Democratic primary.

With 38 consecutive years of Congressional service and know-how, the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee should be, and undoubtedly will be, renominated by a wide margin.

For state central committee member in the two parties, we favor Democratic Committeeman Bruce M. Cook over Mrs. Jean Mays, and Robert "Bob" Glenn over James D. Radden for committeeman of the Republican party in the 21st District.

Two experienced Democratic legislators named Sam are on the local ballot, seeking nominations to continue serving the Quad City area in the Illinois General Assembly—Senator Sam M. Vadalabene of the 56th Legislative District and Sam W. Wolf of the new 11th Representative District.

(Rep. Jim McKie, Alton Democrat, is unopposed in the other half of the 56th, the 112th Representative District.)

Both Sen. Vadalabene and Rep. Wolf are well-informed, active lawmakers. We strongly endorse them in the 1982 primary.

For Madison County elective offices, there are no contests on the Republican ballot.

Several Democratic county officials also have no primary opponents, but there is a lively clash for the Democratic nomination for county treasurer.

Voters of that party must choose between three capable public servants seeking the chance to run for treasurer.

Treasurer Mick Henkhaus has the benefit of four years of experience in that office and additional years of service in other County Courthouse duties. Fred Painter of Granite City has experience on both the county treasurer staff and the staff of the Illinois secretary of state. Robert Stille is an able Edwardsville Township official who also serves on the appointed county transit district board.

Henkhaus has bid for northern county support at the basis of his residency in Bethalto. Such a geographic appeal is a bit disappointing to Quad-Cityans, who had thought that this kind of divisive approach was a thing of the past.

On the other hand, Henkhaus does have direct experience in the treasurer office, and there have been no major scandals during his tenure (despite slowness in putting some tax receipts to productive use, and despite disparity and rule infractions in the way accounts have been apportioned among financial institutions). He has earned for the county more than $4.8 million in interest by investing some of the public funds that he obtained as ex-officio tax collector.

Both Painter and Stille say they would be much more aggressive than Henkhaus in getting newly-collected taxes quickly into the hands of hard-pressed local-level agencies in the local districts, cities, townships, parks, etc.

Due mainly to assessment controversies and time-consuming valuation review hearings, delay has retarded the property taxation concept in Madison County.

The timing in recent years has slowed far from what was intended by those who wrote the real estate law. This has caused the county to do a lot of costly borrowing, while in the meantime failing to do much investing.

Because the tax cycle has been functioning so poorly, the painful tardiness, the treasurer's decision to delay second installments from a 30-day interval to 60 days seems inappropriate. It is already too late to change the schedule, but the normal spring or summertime—when tax bills come due; no further delay should be created, particularly a delay that is needless.

For those who see the County Democratic Central Committee's endorsement of Painter over Henkhaus as mainly a move to regain lost political patronage, it will be easy for them to vote for Henkhaus.

For those who view the spirited three-way race as stemming from widespread discontent with the way in which the treasurer office has been run, it will be easy for them to mark their ballot for either Painter or Stille.

We frankly do not view it as an easy choice, because the issues are not quite that clear-cut. (It's only in the old western movie serials where the good guys and bad guys could be instantly recognized, due to the picture him, and would try to do a good job in a picture which is not as clear-cut.)

Henkhaus undoubtedly is not as un-uncaring about the taxing bodies as some picture him, and would try to do a good job in a picture which is not as clear-cut. He undoubtedly is not as ill-equipped for the office as they are being characterized; they are serious candidates capable of doing the job.

We do not suggest that voters toss a coin to decide who to support, but we haven't thought of an ideal selection method, either.

Putting geographic factors aside, support for Henkhaus could be rationalized. Many Quad-Cityans also could justify a vote for Painter, since he is supposedly dominant community obviously is not dominating the county, it becomes apparent when current officeholders' addresses are noted. And many in organized labor are planning to vote for Stille.

There is no primary competition in three of the eight local districts of the Madison County Board—for the positions held by Nelson Hagnauer of District 20, Herbert "Junior" Milton of 22 and Frank Dutko of 24. All three are seeking re-election to the board, which is chaired by Hagnauer.

Following are our comments on the other five board districts, where there is opposition for Democratic nominations next Tuesday:

District 16—Morris W. Miles, now county board member, is a veteran and is recommended for re-election. In addition to serving as chairman of the Special Sewer Committee, where he has sought (sometimes unsuccessfully) to keep the county's sewerage within reasonable limits, he has experience on the Environmental Control, Health Institutions and Personnel committees.

His opponent, Herbert Why Sr., a well-known Mitchell area figure who is a firm supporter of organized labor. He is retired and, obviously, could devote more time to the job than Miles but we believe Miles has not shied away from the tough decisions and has earned the right for another term.

His opponent, Terry Niedhardt and Eric McDowell, have not launched active campaigns. We sincerely hope they will make the issues known to the voters before the March 16 election, so

Madison ambulance efficient

To the Editor:
On Saturday morning about 9:20 a.m., I had occasion to call the Madison Fire Department's Volunteer Ambulance Service to take my 83-year-old mother to the hospital.

I found the EMT volunteer firemen very quick to respond, along with the Madison police, and very professional in the care and transportation of her.

As a resident of Madison, I am very pleased to see this volunteer fire department serve Madison citizens with speed, dispatch and professionalism.

For those who know her, "grandma" is fine and should be back home by the time this is published.

Sewer systems shows; time for a new leader

The three-township area (Nauvoo, Canton and Venice), in a flood plain, has for years been plagued with the problems of surface waters. We have begged for help from the state, but that need was avoided by the "powers that be." Yet, without storm sewers to drain off the water, the earth in which sanitary sewers were installed remains unstable—changing levels during heavy rains cause breaks in the new sewage lines and resultant introduction of seeping sewage into the lines, causing additional breaks.

Members of the Madison County Board who ramrodded the (Sanitary) sewers through—thus going into the "sewerage" business—were not singularly unqualified to become involved in the sewage business. Some did not even bother to read the contract they voted approval for.

They have been learning by the "trial and error" method to operate the sewage business, at the expense of the residents of the area, who have been allowed no voice in the decision-making process, yet are billed for the mistakes made.

As witness, the $15.80 monthly bill—$6 to Granite City for sewage processing, $9.80 to the county—for what? No explanation.

Residents have ever been provided the residents who are expected to "pay

One candidate stays active

To the Editor:
I would like to direct this to the people of Madison County Board District 19 and Special Sewer District One. Morris Miles and Herbert Why Sr. are running for re-election and one of their platforms is once again sewers and the high rates that we are paying District One for sewage.

I have attended two Granite City Council meetings with William Webb in District 19, and at the last meeting we attended, Mr. Miles and Mr. Webb were supposed to join us in the opposition of the higher sewage (treatment) rates that are being imposed by the city council.

Needless to say, neither gentleman showed, as had been promised. Many times before, but now election time has come and here the gentlemen raise their heads.

Isn't it about time we elect a person who raises her head at all times, and not just at election time. Let's all turn out and vote. Let's elect James L. Hill, who is interested in us all the time.

decisions can be made based upon facts and issues.

District 19—William B. Webb is the county board member with the greatest seniority, a total of 32 consecutive years on the existing board and its predecessor.

An architect of the local phase of the 24 At the present time, he is directing planning of the present Madison County juvenile detention home. Webb also works closely with the sheltered care home, nursing home, tuberculosis clinic, and Highway Committee and Negotiating Committee.

His opponent, Mrs. Helen Hawkins, a senior precinct committeewoman, tirelessly attends numerous public and governmental meetings. She proposes to devote virtually full-time to the County Board and to the promotion of employment and economic growth. It is a difficult choice—experience against enthusiasm.

District 21—Three candidates are running for the position being vacated by Daniel Partney. We favor Vasil Eftimoff, a school administrator with past service in elective positions. His numerous community activities have included the presidency of Coordinated Youth Services.

He is opposed by Joseph McGinness Sr. and Robert E. Gaughan, both relative newcomers to the political arena, although McGinness ran once before for alderman of Granite City.

District 23—Roderick Bauder of Venice is the incumbent board member in this big district, which encompasses northern and western portions of the Quad-City area.

George snubs 'Madison machine' in campaign

To the Editor:
My name is Thomas R. George. I reside at 1703 Elizabeth St., am married and have three children. I grew up in the Third Ward (eighth precinct). My father and mother operated Edwardsville Road for many years.

I attended the Madison grade schools and graduated from Madison High School. I am a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and Operating Engineers Local 925. I am a property owner, taxpayer, and businessman in the city.

On Tuesday, March 16, you will be electing a precinct committeeman to represent our precinct. I am one of the candidates running for this position and would like to ask for your vote and your support. I am not backed by anyone and, therefore, am asking for your vote on my own merits.

My opponent has the backing of the Madison machine... I spoke out against home rule when I voted "no" to this issue. I voiced my opinion about the utility tax we now have. Can my opponent say this? My answer is no, because he is told by the machine what to say.

My opponent is on the fire department and he also is one of the police commissioners. He receives a check from the city of Madison for both of these positions. My opponent's towing company, by the order of the chief of police, has been given the exclusive towing rights for all police towing. Why is this conflict of interest left to exist?

I am not, nor have I ever been a "yes man" and as all of us know, this is something the Madison machine has no use for. If the machine doesn't have you in its grasp, it won't let you go.

It is time for all of us to remember that the Constitution of the United States guarantees us the freedom of speech, no matter if it is a discussion with someone, an editorial in the newspaper or a letter to the editor. No one has the right to intimidate you for your position on any issue.

Steelers eliminate Warriors, 43-38

By TERESA GULL
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — There was a lot of pride shown by the Granite City North and Granite City South girls' basketball teams in their Monday night game.

Both teams wanted to earn the honor of holding the edge on this seasons' games between North and South. North had won the first game. South had won the second game. Both times, the margin was four points.

North pulled out a 43-38 win over South in the first round of district competition at the South gym to win the series match-up. The thrill of North's victory was dampened a bit, however, by the thoughts of their next foe — East St. Louis Lincoln.

STEELERS FACE LINCOLN

Lincoln, which holds a 21-2 record this season, is averaging 83 points and surrendering just 32. Harry Cook, North's head coach, didn't relish the thought of playing one of the state's top teams. Instead, he was more comfortable relishing the victory over cross-town rival South that boosted his team's record to the 500 mark.

Although Cook admitted his team's play was far from perfect, he was pleased with their defensive play against Trish Skinner, South's leading scorer. Miss Skinner set a school scoring record this year, scoring 37 points in one game. She was held to just 13 points Monday night.

"Skinner dominated both ends of the ball game last time," Cook said. "This time, they couldn't get the ball inside to her."

Gary Morgan, South's head coach, said the containment of Miss Skinner was the key to the game. The only reason she was stopped, however, was because Nancy Jones, South's outside shooter, had been sick for the past week and only played half of the game.

SKINNER CONTAINED

In the last game between North and South, Miss Jones scored 15 points. Monday night, she scored only two points.

"She is the girl who can hit from the outside," Morgan said. "If nobody can hit from the outside, they collapse on Trish and we can't get the ball to her."

Also, because Miss Jones had been ill, South slowed down the tempo of the game. Morgan felt this would be advantageous to Jones. South, however, is used to playing a running game and felt uncomfortable playing a slower style of ball.

North took the lead in the game with five seconds remaining in the first half on a pair of free throws by junior Kim Fountain. They steadily increased their lead in the second half, gaining an eight point lead with 37 seconds remaining in the game.

Miss Fountain led North's scoring attack with 15 points. Paula French, the only senior on the North squad, contributed 10 points.

Although winning the game, Cook felt his team played their best basketball of the season in the first week of February in the Collinsville Tournament.

"We played much better basketball in the Collinsville Tournament," Cook said. "I think we peaked out too soon."

Lincoln stymies Steelers

GRANITE CITY — Awesome. Simply awesome.

There are no other words to describe the East St. Louis Lincoln girls' team. Granite City North felt the full force of Lincoln's greatness last night, losing to Lincoln 67-19 in district semi-final play at South.

The leading entity behind Lincoln's domination was Tina Hutchinson, an All-American forward. Miss Hutchinson, a junior, scored 35 points, 10 points above her season average of 25 points per game.

She dominated Lincoln's offensive attack, scoring from the outside, driving the lane, and controlling both the offensive and defensive boards.

North did not score until the 3:09 mark in the first quarter. Their first points came off a pair of free throws by senior Paula French. Cindi Miller scored North's only field goal of the half on a jump shot with 2:20 remaining in the first half.

NORTH'S GOALS

Harry Cook, North's head coach, said the team had two goals going into the game. One goal was to get the ball up the court against Lincoln's full court press. Last night in practice, the team worked on four different methods of beating Lincoln's press.

North's other goal was to play a slow down, controlled offense and run time off of the clock. Cook knew they wouldn't be able to get the ball inside against Lincoln. He just wanted the offense to use as much time as possible to keep the ball away from Lincoln. He felt that would be their best defensive tactic.

For the most part, Cook felt North did what they set out to do. Although they did have some problems, bringing the ball up the court, they did get the ball over the half court line.

Scoring, however, did present problems. "They were totally intimidated," Cook said.

North scored only five field goals the entire game. When they did shoot, their shots were blocked by the taller Lincoln team.

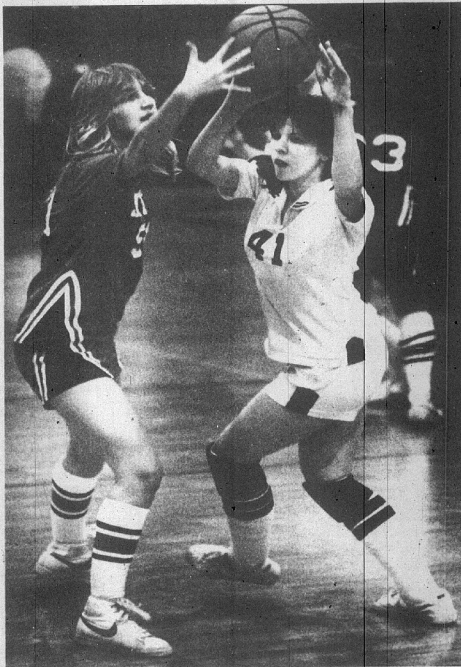

Cook was pleased with his team's ability to control the ball and hold Lincoln under 100 points. At times, they were able to run two to three minutes off of the clock. Although they didn't score, neither did Lincoln.

North's success in slowing down the game was indicated by Lincoln's sparse scoring in the second half. At half time, Lincoln had tallied 42 points. They only scored 10 points the third quarter and 15 points the fourth quarter.

Trojanettes trounce Dupo in regional 42-17

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

EAST ST. LOUIS — Madison's girls basketball team didn't play its best game of the season, but the Trojanettes really didn't need an all-out effort Wednesday.

The Trojanettes easily defeated Dupo 42-17 in the semi-finals of the Class A girls' regional tournament at East St. Louis Assumption. Madison will play tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the tournament championship against Assumption.

The winner of the Assumption Regional will play the winner of the Bunker Hill Regional Tuesday in the Staunton Sectional.

"We've played better," Madison coach Carol Sterns said. "We played well tonight, all things considered. It's kind of hard to stay in the game when you're so far ahead, so you have to encourage them sometimes when you're that far ahead."

NEW DEFENSE

Madison got to do some things that they haven't been able to do this season. The Trojanettes, 12-4 for the season, points that helped to put Madison far ahead. Jacks outscored the entire Dupo team.

"She's really scored well in her last three games," Sterns said. "She's scored 20, 26 and 22 points in those games. She's only had a couple of games in which she hasn't scored in double figures, but she consistently scores in double figures, a lately in double-double figures."

Jacks made 10 of 18 field goals in the game. No other player from either team scored in double figures.

with the team we play unless we don't do the basic things better. We're not taking anyone lightly though from this point on. You have to do the basics well in order to advance," Sterns said.

For the game, Madison made 20 of 55 field goal attempts. "We missed quite a few shots tonight, but I'm glad we put the ball up that many times. If you can do that, eventually some of those will fall in."

In Wednesday's other semi-final game, Assumption defeated second-seeded Wesclin 37-31. Angel Ahart and Linda Werger led Assumption with 11 points each.

usually play a man-to-man defense, but Madison used a 1-2-2 zone press most of the game. Madison also used a lot of inexperienced players.

With the Trojanettes doing so many unnatural things, it wasn't surprising the Trojans made some mistakes. Fortunately for the Trojans, Dupo just couldn't take advantage of the mistakes.

"We had a few problems running the zone because we don't usually use it," Sterns said. "We used a lot of people of the bench because you have to give them a little playing time. You could tell our freshman guard, Kim Stanley, was a little nervous handling the ball. In the first quarter, we weren't getting the rebounds. We have to remember the basics. If we can do the basics, then we can play our game," Sterns said.

Madison had only a 10-8 lead after the first quarter, but the Trojanettes blew things open in the second quarter by outscoring Dupo 18-5.

JACKS COMES ON

Ruth Jacks, the Trojanettes' leading scorer, scored eight of her game high 20

Madison's defense was particularly effective in the third and fourth quarters. The Trojanettes tired Dupo with its offense, and Dupo scored only three points in both of those quarters.

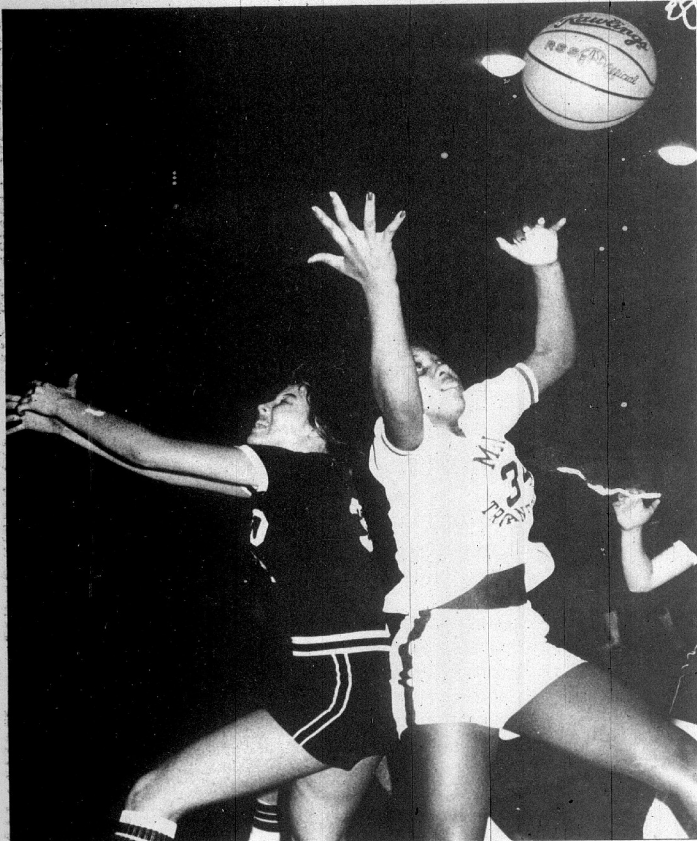

Madison had tired Dupo so much in with the press that Dupo had problems setting up plays because the players were standing to get a rest. Frequently, Dupo captain Mitzi Miller had to yell to get her teammates moving.

Meanwhile, Madison's offense committed four straight turnovers in the third quarter because of the inexperience of the new players in the lineup. The defense made up for those mistakes by stopping Dupo's offense.

"I'm just glad we played a fairly good game. For the most part, the defense played a good game. We gave up a few things here and there, but that's to be expected in a game like this. If the game was closer, we wouldn't have made some of the mistakes we did," Sterns said.

Madison, the top seed of the tournament, is confident they will win tonight in the finals and make the trip Tuesday to Staunton.

"I'm not expecting a lot of problems

Former resident's songs recorded

"Jesus Is Gettin' Me Ready" to the title of a long play album featuring 10 original songs written by Donna Gardner Halley of Doniphan, Mo., formerly of Granite City, which now is available throughout the country.

The first began to play the guitar and took a few piano lessons, but her aptitude for playing by ear superseded her desire to read music, according to her mother, Mrs. Cleo Gardner, who now resides in Belleville.

Mrs. Halley continued her interest in music and 14 years ago wrote and sang her first song, "Faith." While her father, Norman Gardner of Belleville, was ill, she sent him a tape recording of her songs. Mr. Gardner died Sept. 26, 1981. He was employed at Granite City Steel for 30 years prior to his retirement in 1974.

After his death Mrs. Halley's mother and sister, Norma Kelly, listened to the tape and they agreed that Mrs. Halley should take her music to Nashville.

A few days later the former resident received a phone call from Eddie Crook, well-known pianist for the Happy Goodman family and producer. After hearing her music he invited her to Nashville and offered his expertise in making her record.

Mrs. Halley and her husband, Ed Halley, are the parents of three daughters, Denise, 14, Shelly, 11, and Angel, 8, and a son, Chad, who is 3.

She actually cut the record on Nov. 11 and 12 and it is available at a cost of $7 at The Prospect-News and Halley Electric in Doniphan. Cassette and 8-track tapes are to arrive soon from Nashville, according to a family spokesman.

'Employ Older Workers Week' recognizes abilities, skills

The contribution to the nation's economy by America's older work force will be honored next week with the national and state observance of "Employ the Older Worker Week." One of the objectives of this annual recognition is to make employers nationwide aware of the job skills and abilities of those men and women of years-of-age and older who are unemployed.

Dorothy Williams, manager of the Illinois State Job Service in Granite City and June Nealy, project director of the National Retired Teachers Association-American Association of Retired Persons Senior Community Service Employment Program for Madison and St. Clair Counties in Illinois, are working together to focus attention on this area's older work force.

"Almost half of the national labor force is comprised of workers aged 45 and older," says Mrs. Williams, "and many are seeking employment to no avail." Recognizing that the present economic situation is tough on workers of all ages, both Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Nealy agreed, "Older Workers should be given an equal chance to be employed."

Numerous studies have shown, contrary to popular belief, that older workers have fewer job-related accidents, greater job stability, less absenteeism and less likelihood of quitting. "They are just as productive as their younger counterparts and exhibit three priceless qualities needed in today's society—maturity, judgment, and experience. However, they need a chance to demonstrate these values to overcome unfair stereotypes," the women said.

At the local Illinois State Job Service Office, 7 American Village Shopping Center, Dorothy Williams emphasized that, "all of the job service staff work with job applicants of any age; however, our office is fortunate in having an Older Worker Specialist in the person of Jewell Young. Mrs. Young, an older worker herself, counsels and works with those over 40 who are in need of employment." Mrs. Young has been employed through Title V of the Older Americans Act, better known as the Senior Community Service Employment Program, since January of 1979, as a part-time employee, first sponsored by NRTA-AARP, and now by the State of Illinois, Department of Aging.

The Senior Community Service Employment Program, presently funded by the Department of Labor under Title V of the Older Americans Act, was designed to provide, foster, and promote useful part-time work opportunities for economically disadvantaged persons 55 years-of-age and older. Providing on-the-job training in community service non-profit organizations, many times leading to permanent job placement, the program has been active in this area since 1974, helping hundreds of older workers find employment. Mrs. Nealy's SCSEP office is located at 118a Hillsboro Ave., in Edwardsville.

Since the Department of Labor in the Administrations' Fiscal Year '83 Budget, proposes "zero" dollars for Title V of the Older Americans Act (SCSEP) after Sept. 30, 1982, 54,000 older Americans nationwide stand to lose their part-time jobs next fall. Indications to legislators of widespread support for this effective program is making its refunding a prominent issue on Capitol Hill.

The Senior Community Service Employment Program and the Illinois State Job Service Offices join together during "Employ the Older Worker Week" in once again emphasizing that ability, not age, is a measure of a person's value on the labor market. Employers interested in qualified workers and older job applicants are welcome to come to Job Service or SCSEP offices for information and help.

Absentee voting ends on Monday

Voters who will be unable to vote in person on primary election day, March 16, may cast absentee ballots in the Madison County clerk's office in the county courthouse at Edwardsville or at township clerk's offices throughout the Quad-City area.

Those who plan to cast absentee ballots in person have until 5 p.m. Monday, March 15, to do so. For the convenience of voters who work, the county clerk's office in the county courthouse will be open Saturday, March 13, from 9 a.m. to noon to accept absentee voters.

Local clerk's offices open weekdays for absentee balloting include the Granite

City clerk's office, 2000 Edison Ave., the Madison County clerk's office, 1529 Third St., Madison, the Venice Township clerk's office, 1502 Fifth St., Venice, the Pontoon Beach Village clerk's office, 3910 Highway 111, Pontoon Beach, and the Chouteau Town clerk's office, 697a N. Thorngate Drive, Mitchell.

ARREST MAN ON CONDUCT CHARGE

Paul W. Solomon, 28, of 3303 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested last week on a complaint signed by Greyford Worley after officers responded to a disturbance call at the housing complex.

Mrs. Worley, 4902 Kirkpatrick Homes, alleged Solomon had been harassing her, used obscene language toward her and also swung a baseball bat in her direction.

Solomon was released on payment of a $50 cash bond.

On March 16th, you the voters of MADISON COUNTY, will nominate a Democratic Candidate for Madison County Treasurer. Of the three candidates running, you have a very clear choice in Bob Stille.

While there are various things a County Treasurer may do to make it more convenient for you to pay your taxes, like extending the collection time, etc. TWO OF THE MOST IMPORTANT FUNCTIONS OF THE OFFICE ARE PROMPT PAYMENT OF TAXES COLLECTED TO THE TAXING BODIES (IT IS THEIR MONEY — NOT THE COUNTY TREASURER'S) AND INVESTMENT OF COUNTY TAXES AND OTHER TAXES WHILE IN THE HANDS OF THE COUNTY TREASURER. (Twelve million dollars should not lie idle in a checking account for one day!)

Bob Stille is conscientious, capable and qualified by experience as a private elected official and this is why you have a clear choice in nominating him — HE CAN RUN ON HIS RECORD! He served one term as Township Tax Collector and HIS RECORD OF PROMPT PAYMENT OF TAXES COLLECTED BROUGHT HIM TESTIMONIALS FROM VARIOUS TAXING BODIES. This is one of the most important functions of the office of COUNTY TREASURER.

Bob is currently serving his second term as Township Supervisor and Treasurer of the Edwardsville Township Road District. The investment of funds under his jurisdiction has been termed "EXCELLENT" by the Township's independent auditor. The last Township audit revealed $271,879 invested and $23 in checking accounts. THIS KIND OF INVESTMENT CAN BE DONE WITH COUNTY TAX DOLLARS. He is currently pooling monies from various funds to earn further interest on tax dollars.

Bob, as Treasurer of the Madison County Transit District, also invests funds in that capacity. The more interest any taxing body earns on tax dollars until needed, the less tax YOU should have to pay.

He is Chairman of District 4 for Madison County Community Development (District four includes Collinsville, Edwardsville, Jarvis and Pin Oak Townships and all the municipalities therein). He is also a member of the Madison County EOC Weatherization Committee and his 25 years experience as a building contractor is very helpful for both these programs.

As Township Supervisor, Bob has worked with and helped many groups — youth, senior citizens, initiated the only Township fuel assistance program in Madison County to assist the elderly and low income families pay their heating costs, developed the Edwardsville Township Community Park and was instrumental in reviving a program to build new athletic fields for the Edwardsville School District. These are just some of the accomplishments that make the people of Edwardsville Township proud to have Bob Stille working for them.

Now is the time for the people of MADISON COUNTY to let Bob Stille work for you. He is the PEOPLE'S CHOICE FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

Bob is married to the former Wanda Johnston from Alton and has two sons, Robert M. and Michael J. and two daughters, Marcia and Susan. His father-in-law was a past president of Carpenters Local 377 and his uncle, John B. Soehke was appointed County Treasurer to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Henry. Bob is a member of K.C. Council 1143, 4th Degree.
